Crucial Tests For New Deal Up in Congress

Wage-Hour and Silver Purchase Plan Big Issues

DUE NEXT WEEK

Most Major Legislation Disposed of for Current Term

Washington—(P)—Representative Dempsey (D-N.M.) filed in the house today a petition to wrest from the house judiciary committee a bill extending the so-called Hatch "clean politics" law. A score of the required 218 signatures were affixed within 15 minutes.

Despite this action, however, Dempsey predicted that the house judiciary committee would be asked to reconsider its vote to pigeon-hole the measure.

He intimated that a wrong count in the committee might have shelved the legislation.

The vote was taken in secret but was reported to have been 14 to 10 for tabling. Dempsey said 14 members since had told him that they voted not to table.

Washington—(P)—Congress wound up four months of its election-year session today and headed into the adjournment stretch with little done and little left to do.

With the exception of a prolonged battle over the politically-important legislation continuing the administration's reciprocal trade program, many members have been content to limit action to routine appropriation bills. President Roosevelt has requested virtually no new legislation.

Political sniping has filled in the frequent gaps between major bills, and some lawmakers predict even more campaign talk before the tentatively-scheduled June 8 adjournment.

Nevertheless, the administration now is facing crucial tests in both chambers with the senate considering legislation to stop the treasury's purchase of foreign silver and the house debating amendments to relax the wage-hour act. The senate recessed over the weekend, and neither chamber will take a final vote before next week.

Delay Predicted

It appeared unlikely the senate would consider this session any wage-hour amendments approved by the house or that the house would take up any senate-approved silver bill.

Other strife was in the making over the Logan-Walter bill to subject rulings of federal administrative agencies to court review, proposed revision of the Wagner act, and measures to invalidate President Roosevelt's two most recent plans for government reorganization.

Vice President Garner was reported to be working quietly for the house-approved Logan-Walter bill. Senate committee hearings were scheduled next week on the resolutions aimed at killing Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization proposals, and a hot senate fight is in store over a provision incorporating the independent civil aeronautics authority in the commerce department.

Triumph for Hull

Reviewing the session thus far, administration lieutenants claimed that the president has suffered no major setbacks and that with Secretary Hull, he has won an important triumph in extension of the trade program.

On the other hand, he has ignored the chief executive's recommendation that additional taxes be raised or $45,000,000 debt limit increased. It overrode yesterday his veto of a bill granting travel and food allowances to a group of Spanish-American war veterans who served in the Philippines after that conflict ended.

Congress has whittled defense requests to compensate for extra-budgetary expenditures for agriculture and other purposes. Up to the present, the senate and house or their committees have trimmed a net $152,000,000 from the president's general budget estimates.

Rules Raids on Reds' Offices Law Violation

Federal Judge Refuses to Dismiss Complaint of Communist Party

BLOW TO PROBERS

Court Defers Ruling on Return of Confiscated Material

Philadelphia—(P)—Federal Judge George A. Welsh ruled today that raids made on local offices of the Communist party and the International Workers' Order by agents of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities last month were illegal.

The ruling was made in dismissing a motion of counsel for the Dies agents and Magistrate Jacob Dogole which asked that a complaint by the Communist party be thrown out.

The complaint, made by Carl Reeve, Communist candidate for the United States senate, and Frank Hellman, district organizer for the International Workers' Order, charged that warrants issued by Dogole for the raids April 2 were illegal, and demand return of confiscated records.

Judge Welsh deferred ruling on whether the confiscated material must be returned. The truckload of papers, membership rolls and other material was taken to Washington and later returned to Philadelphia, where it is now under police guard.

Bodies of Three Persons Found Near Pittsburgh

Believe Victims May Have Been Slain by 'Mad Butcher'

Pittsburgh—(P)—Dismembered bodies of three persons who might be the victims of the "mad butcher" blamed for 12 torso slayings in Cleveland were found today in the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad yards in nearby Stowe township.

Deputy Coroner Anthony Sappo said the word "nazi" had been carved on the chest of the third victim, found several hours after the discovery of the first two torsos.

The coroner's office reported that the bodies were those of men. Two had been subjected to mutilation and it was first believed they were women.

Italy Stays Calm Despite Allied Naval Movements

Fascists Say They'll Act When Mussolini Gives Command

Rome—(P)—Reinforcement of the allied naval power in the Mediterranean was seen today as a move toward applying pressure on Italy for clarification of her "non-belligerent" status.

The allied action, announced yesterday by Prime Minister Chamberlain, left Italians outwardly calm. While fascists insisted that Italy is fully prepared to act the moment Premier Mussolini should give the order, observers saw some evidence that that day is not looked for immediately.

With the liner Rex en route to New York and other crack Italian liners on the high seas, they considered a sudden move now unlikely.

'We Stand Alone Against Germans,' Message Says

British and French Withdraw Troops From Namsos; Norse Reported 'Outflanked And Encircled'

Stockholm—(AP)—Dispatches from Grong, Norway, tonight said that the Norwegian command had announced the conclusion of hostilities in the Grong area, east of Namsos, and the Norwegians' intention of negotiating peace with the Germans.

The dispatches said the following order of the day was issued by Colonel O. B. Getz, acting Norwegian commander:

"As the British and French, for reasons unknown to us, have given up helping us in our fight and have withdrawn their troops from Namsos we today stand alone against the entire German war machine, already outflanked and encircled on a line which the British and France should be holding, without aid from the outside and with only enough ammunition for one day and without planes and other necessary war materials.

"Any further fighting will only lead to destruction without serving any military purpose."

'We Want to Hear You Say 'I want—'

You're read that Hitler says "I" once in every 53 words. Mussolini once in 83; and Prime Minister Chamberlain once in 249 words. President Roosevelt writes "I" once in every 100 words, or 2.08 times for each state in the union except Maine and Vermont. Only reigning monarchs and newspaper writers use "We." Ancient Rome called it "The plural of Majesty." So, majestically, "we" say: "Please, come to the school." To another successful Post-Crescent classified want-ad.

Capacity Audience at Closing Session Brings Cooking School Attendance to 7,000 for 4 Days

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN

With a capacity audience which brought the total attendance this year to 7,000 persons, the nineteenth annual Post-Crescent cooking school closed a 4-day session this morning at the Ric theater. Amidst farewells to Miss Edna M. Ferguson, this year's instructor and demonstrator, her assistants, Tom Temple's orchestra and H. L. Davis, Jr., master of ceremonies, the final session of the school progressed to a gala conclusion. The audience, by generous applause, showed its appreciation of the homemaking program, the profusion of gifts which were awarded during the morning, and the foot-tapping melodies of the orchestra which kept the crowd in party mood.

Testimony of Miss Ferguson's popularity with her cooking school

Audiences in other places as well as Appleton were given this morning when a party of seven women from Manitowish, where the demonstration conducted a school last week, drove to Appleton to attend the final session. Because they arrived too late to secure tickets, Miss Ferguson took them back stage where they found chairs and watched the lesson and program. Women were present also from Seymour, Black Creek, New London and other nearby communities.

There was a complete lack of formality in today's program, the women of the audience participating in the demonstration by sending up notes to the stage, giving written suggestions about the uses of various products advertised in the

Speculate on Heil Reaction to Henry Bid for Candidacy

Governor Refuses to Comment on Convention Possibilities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—With the first definite word from Robert K. Henry that he is a candidate for governor as a Republican, capitol speculation today centered upon the probable attitude of Republican Governor Julius P. Heil in the event the Green Bay state convention of the party endorses Henry's candidacy.

The governor yesterday was asked point blank if he would run for reelection if the party, as represented in a delegate convention, expresses its preference for another, but he declined to answer.

"I'm not talking politics today, or reelection," he said briefly when the inquiry was made.

Henry this week told a Jefferson county Republican rally that he would be glad to run if the Green Bay G.O.P. convention on May 31 asks him to do so. However, the office must come to the man, in his opinion, he said.

The opinion here is, however, that Heil will run for reelection on his record whatever is the action and the attitude of the party convention.

Buckman Officers Given Temporary Release From Jail

Madison—(3)—An order from Governor Heil releasing Barton E. Buckman and Louis C. George from Wisconsin prison so they can come to Madison under guard for conferences with counsel was sent to Warden John Burke at the prison today.

The former officers of the defunct B. E. Buckman and company, Madison investment firm, who are serving sentences of one to three years for violations of state securities law, are scheduled to go on trial in federal district court here May 13 on mail fraud and securities law charges.

Edwin C. Holt, former secretary of the Buckman company, and eight former office managers and salesmen also will be tried on the federal charges.

Attorney Carl N. Hill, of Madison, applied to the governor for the temporary release of Buckman and George. It was the fourth removal request granted them in recent months.

Salvation Army 'Victory Dinner' At Y' Tonight

Near $4,000 Goal in Drive: Lieutenant-Commissioner to Speak

The annual campaign of the Appleton chapter of the Salvation Army moved another step closer to its goal of $4,000 today, after reports at last night's dinner meeting in the Y. M. C. A. had showed the amount of contributions to $2,403.25.

Adjutant T. A. Raber announced today that Lieutenant-Commissioner George H. Davis, attached to the Los Angeles chapter of the Salvation Army, will speak at the "victory dinner" at 6 o'clock tonight at the Y.

With contributions running nearly $700 ahead of last year's drive, the division headed by R. L. Peterson and Dr. Leo Murphy stood at the top today with $647.25. Ranking of the other divisions follows: E. W. Shannon-George Hintz, $624.65; the Rev. G. H. Blum-Louis Waltman, Jr., $564.50; Mrs. Clara McGowan-Mrs. R. H. Kubitz, $541.60.

The Shannon-Hintz division, however, won a prize for turning in the largest amount last evening, $210.20.

Adjutant Raber reported today that the workers are no longer restricted to their card lists and today are contacting the general public. Today and tomorrow will be devoted to "cleaning up" operations.

Lieutenant-Commissioner Davis, who will speak at tonight's banquet, was born in Carnegie, Pa. A worker in the Salvation Army since a young man, he was given a roving commission in 1935 and has conducted revival campaigns in Oriental and European countries.

HOTEL MAN DIES

Chicago—(1)—Thomas E. Byron, 55, identified as operator of the Barcelona hotel, St. Augustine, Fla., and the Oceanic hotel, Ocean City, N. J., died yesterday in the United States court house, apparently from a heart attack. He had been negotiating the opening of a new hotel at Green Lake, Wis.

The exhibit will be one of many in the national sponsored by the professional and service division of the WPA. The object of the exhibit is to show the public what is being done on these projects and the practical nature of the work.

On Keller's committee are Mrs. Anna Dreusel, supervisor of the WPA sewing project; M. A. Herberg, supervisor of the WPA music project; Stephen A. Peeters, supervisor of the WPA recording project; Mrs. Hazel F. Bannister, supervisor of the WPA recreational project; Elmer Scott, supervisor of the WPA education project; and Miss Elizabeth Spooner, Green Bay, district sewing project supervisor.

The Italian concentrations were reported especially heavy at the island of Rhodes, 375 miles from Alexandria.

Berne—(7)—The Swiss government today ordered more than 30,000 additional reserve troops to report for active service between May 14 and 18.

Informal quarters said that reported concentration of German troops in Baden and Wurttemberg, near the Swiss frontier, led the army commander-in-chief, General Henri Guisan, to recommend this further step in Swiss mobilization.

Between 500,000 and 600,000 men are expected to be under arms by June.

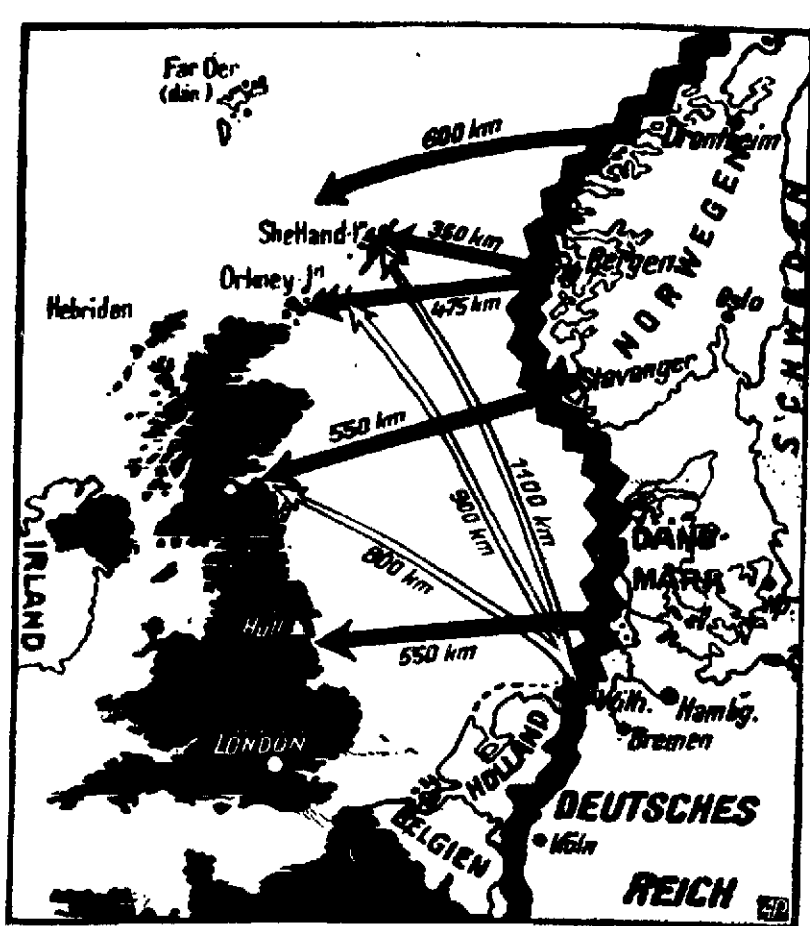

Men called up today include many units of the landsturm (reserve militia) who are between 36 and 60 years old. Most of Switzerland's men between 20 and 36 are already under arms.

MAP SHOWS STRATEGIC SITUATION

This German map, according to censor-approved caption from Berlin, shows the new strategic situation in the North Sea. Black arrows show distances between some German-held Scandinavian cities and British ports and cities. Light arrows show the distances from German North Sea coast to the same points in England and Scotland.

Captain and Some Members Of Crew Disagree on Source Of Attacks on Two Vessels

BY JOHN A. MOROSO JR.
New York—(4)—The bullet-scarred American freighter Flying Fish returned from the Norwegian war zone today with an exciting story of how she and another American vessel were caught in a furious battle between German land and sea forces and allied warplanes last month at Bergen.

Even before the ship docked there was a sharp conflict between the captain and some members of the crew as to whether they were raked by allied or German bullets.

Captain W. W. Wallaston, veteran of the United States navy during the World war, declared his ship was struck accidentally by bullets from a Norwegian land battery which had been taken over by the Germans and which was firing on British warplanes.

"I was on the bridge and I saw everything that happened," he said. "The shore battery fired on our ship by accident."

Blame Allied Bullets
Sixteen of the 48 members of the crew, however, were equally emphatic in a signed statement that their ship was raked—accidentally, they agreed—by one of the allied planes.

"The ship's log described the incident as follows:
"April 12 . . . 5 p. m.—During an air raid, a plane circled between the Flying Fish and the line of fire of shore batteries, and a spray of machine-gun bullets struck the Flying Fish, hitting the foredeck and several drums of oil on deck. No member of the crew was injured."

The log also reported that on April 16 the American freighter Charles R. McCormick was caught in a spray of machine-gun bullets that cut its mast stays and wire rigging.

Says British Attacked
A crew member identified as George Gilbert in an NBC radio broadcast from New York today said there could be no doubt that it was a British plane that fired on the Flying Fish, flying an American flag at the time, but he thought it was due to nervousness of the pilot.

Blames Nervousness
"I attribute it to the plane pilot's nervousness," he said. "He raked our decks. Fortunately he wasn't using incendiary bullets. He had been flying over the land, dropping bombs, and was evidently going home when he spotted us."

"He swerved, came over us and let loose with the bullets."

Captain Wallaston also described the destruction of a German cruiser and German supply ship by British bombers during the battle.

Recent Developments Indicate Allies Would Just as Soon See Mussolini Join Hitler in War

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(4)—Developments in the strained relations between the Anglo-French allies and Italy during the past 48 hours strike me as constituting all but a direct invitation to Signor Mussolini to join the war if he wants to.

Refer, of course, to Britain's clearing of its mercantile marine from the Mediterranean, and British Premier Chamberlain's startling announcement yesterday that the Anglo-French battle fleet was already in those waters, headed for Alexandria bay.

One wouldn't go so far as to say that the allies are trying to push Mussolini into the war—though stranger things have happened. They may even hope that he will reconsider his position and perhaps ultimately cast his lot with them. In any event it is a call for a showdown.

Indications are, however, that they are quite willing to take him on at any time. It should be said here that I have no official backing for this suggestion. It's just the way these latest moves look to me when viewed as part of the pattern which has been woven in the exchanges between the duce and the allies since Munich.

Pro-Nazi Attitude
Ever since the beginning of the war the fascist official attitude (and consequently that of the press) has been strongly pro-Nazi and often bitterly anti-ally. This attitude has been perhaps more apparent than real, and has represented Mussolini's strategy for maintaining a middle-of-the-road course until such time as he had decided how Italy's interests best could be served.

It is my personal view, from study on the ground, that Mussolini has little affection for either the allies or for Hitler. Italy has been suspicious of the allies ever since the World war, charging that they didn't fulfill the territorial promises which brought the Italians into the war. After Mussolini himself had made a successful campaign to persuade his country to join the allies.

So far as regards Hitler, the duce probably admires his successes but never has liked the Nazi chieftain.

During recent weeks there has been a steady stream of intimations from Rome that Italy would get into the war on Germany's side when Mussolini thought the time was right. This was blared through thousands of radios in Germany after the "great feast" between Hitler and Mussolini in the secrecy of the gloomy Brenner pass.

London Protests
Things got so bad that the other day London protested to Rome about the pro-Nazi, anti-ally treatment of war news. British Foreign Minister Lord Halifax inquired about Italy's attitude. And British Minister of Economic Warfare Cress warned Italy to behave like a neutral if she wanted to be treated as one.

We now come to an even more important phase of the quarrel between Mussolini and the allies—the fascist territorial and political demands against England and France. These have been thrust forward persistently and belligerently.

Among other things, Italy has clung to her claims to "living space," for colonization rights in French Tunisia, for a share in the Suez canal, for a free port at Djibouti (gateway to Italian Ethiopia) and for the railway running from Djibouti into Ethiopia.

There have been indications at one time and another that the allies were prepared to adjust some of these claims. However, there has remained one great and unsolvable issue between the disputants—control of the Mediterranean.

As late as two weeks ago authoritative Italians insisted on freedom from British and French control over the Mediterranean as Italy's chief aim.

Now you might talk John Bull into giving up his purse, but when you try to intrude on the tradition that Britannia rules the waves, and especially the Mediterranean waves, you are asking for trouble. The last thing England would be willing to concede would be domination of this strategic sea which controls so many of her great interests.

Along with this the allies have had to consider the relation between Italy and Spain. Ever since Mussolini backed Spanish Generalissimo Franco in the civil war, observers have speculated as to the possibility that the duce might get his reward in naval and air bases close to the gateway to the Mediterranean—a potential menace to both Britain and France. Denials by Spain and Italy that such a move was intended may have failed to remove anxiety.

If Italy should come into the war now these grievous arguments could be settled once and for all. Actually take Italy on for a fight.

Margaret Puth and Norma Crow Named Talisman Editors

Margaret Puth and Norma Crow will be co-editors of the Talisman, Appleton High school newspaper, it was announced at the annual staff banquet last night at the Copper Kettle.

Etta Manning and Ruth De Braal will be desk editors and Robert Connelly will be the sports editor. William Koerner was named business manager and Carl Goldbeck, present head of the advertising department, was reappointed and will be assisted by Gerald Sewall. The editorial staff will be named later.

The new co-editors succeed Astyr Hamner, present editor-in-chief, who made the announcements.

Miss Betty Ann Johnson, speech instructor at Menasha High school, presented imitations. Jerry Arens, Robert Connelly, Charles Hervey, Elliott Jacobson, and Jason Merkes presented a skit, "Deadline Blues."

John Hamner was master of ceremonies, and with the assistance of James Miller and William Stach led the group singing.

The allies believe they could hamstring Italy by a blockade while the French army attacked from the north. That being the case, Germany would be deprived of valuable aid, for Italy undoubtedly is of more use to Nazism as a non-belligerent than as a combatant.

Greece and Turkey presumably would join the allies immediately. They fear Mussolini and his ambitions much more than they do any other man or state, as I learned during my tour of the Balkans a little over a year ago. Their entrance into the war might open up that Balkan battle-front we have been hearing so much about, giving the allies a chance to attack Germany from the rear.

When you consider all aspects of the position it is easy to see why the allies may not be reluctant to take Italy on for a fight.

Bishop of Chicago Episcopal Diocese Stricken in Auto

Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart Dies of Heart Ailment

Chicago—(4)—The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, 60, bishop of the Chicago Episcopal diocese for the past decade, died last night of a heart ailment.

He was stricken in his automobile while enroute to a south side church to instruct a confirmation class. His chauffeur took him to Burnside hospital, where he was pronounced dead after a fire department desecrator squad worked for 15 minutes to revive him.

Bishop Stewart, recognized as one of the nation's leading preachers, was elected bishop coadjutor of the diocese in February, 1930, and became bishop nine months later. For 25 years he was rector of St. Luke's church in Evanston, largest Episcopal parish in the west.

He was a member of the national council of the church for the past 15 years. At the time of his death he headed the national commission on Negro work.

Funeral services for Bishop Stewart will be conducted Monday at 11 a. m. at St. Luke's pro-cathedral in Evanston. The Very Rev. Gerald G. Moore, dean of the cathedral, said the body would lie in state in the cathedral from 6 p. m. until the funeral, with a guard of honor of clergy and laity.

The standing committee of clergymen and laymen, of which Dean Moore is chairman, now constitutes the ecclesiastical authority of the diocese until election of a new bishop.

A Phoney Idea of the War

The view is widely held that at the end of the war in Europe all the fighting nations will be completely exhausted; the vanquished will collapse in a revolutionary upheaval, and the nominal victors will be too weakened to move. Considering the vast destructiveness of modern war, the prediction is so plausible that many are thinking it must be true; indeed there are many statesmen and politicians who are basing their whole conception of the war upon it.

I am venturing to suggest that the idea is one of those half-truths which are often more misleading than a total, and therefore a more obvious, untruth.

An initial reason, for suspecting the unsoundness of the idea is that such contradictory and incongruous practical conclusions are being drawn from it. We are told that Soviet Russia is seeking to prolong the war so that Bolshevism may triumph in an exhausted Europe. We are also told that the security of the United States cannot be impaired, no matter who wins the war in Europe, because the victors will be too exhausted to go on. There is something very queer, it seems to me, about an idea which leads to these two conclusions.

For on the one hand, it would follow that in order to save Europe from Bolshevism a peace must be made at once and at any price; on the other hand, it would also follow that the longer the war lasts and the more thoroughly it exhausts the great powers of Europe, the more perfect will be the security of the United States. Are we, I wonder, really understanding the war when we find ourselves terrified that the exhaustion of the war will make Europe safe for Bolshevism and deeply reassured because it will make the Western Hemisphere safe for isolationism?

There must be something, shall we say phoney, in a notion which leads to the conclusion that we must wish to stop the war in order to stop Bolshevism—and yet, that if we do not stop the war, we have nothing to fear because the resulting exhaustion in Europe will make this hemisphere safe against aggression. The thing will not hold together. The same supposed outcome, namely the exhaustion of Europe is offered to us as a reason for being frightened and for being contented. If the war goes on and yet complacent about the outcome. There is, I repeat, something phoney about this view of the war.

Great Conquerors are Not Stopped by Exhaustion

It is phoney because it is not true that this war is any more likely than any other war to end with the victors in such a state of exhaustion that they cannot move. No doubt the victors will have suffered terrible losses, their supplies will be used up, their credit will be gone, their machinery worn out, their peoples hungry, cold and tired. But the victor will have his victory, that is to say, he will have shattered the power of his enemies to resist him. Therefore though in an absolute sense he may possibly be weaker than when he started the war, having less trained soldiers, less guns and airplanes and the like in a relative sense—which is all that counts—he will be infinitely stronger.

For in a battle you lose three-quarters of your force but you defeat your enemy, the remaining quarter of your force is then ever much more powerful in fact than was the whole original force. In this sense the victor is stronger at the end of a war than he was at the beginning.

But what about the exhaustion of his resources and the depletion of his capital, the hungry misery of his people, will that not cause him to stop when he has concluded an armistice? Not necessarily. If the victor's nation is hungry and yet, as we have seen, it is in a military sense irresistible, the simplest and most obvious remedy for its "exhaustion" is to conquer and loot. It was said of Napoleon Bonaparte, when he began his career as the commander of a ragged army drawn from a bankrupt nation, that he learned how to make war nourish war. For nineteen years the armies of Napoleon ranged across Europe from Spain to Moscow, from Scandinavia to Egypt. On what did they feed? They fed on their victories.

The great conquerors of history have never been stopped by exhaustion; on the contrary, the exhaustion of their resources is the most compelling of all reasons, more compelling than ambition or the love of glory, why they must go on until like Alexander they sigh because there are no more worlds to conquer or like Napoleon they meet their Waterloo.

Conqueror's Peace Is As Long As His Power

What was true of Alexander, Caesar, and Napoleon is likely to be even more certainly true of a modern conqueror. For in these days the preparation of conquest requires the totalitarian organization of a nation for war, that is to say the application of virtually all its capital and its labor to war. To demobilize such a war organization would be even more difficult than to mobilize it; given victory which destroys all power and will to resist, given exhaustion which requires the immediate acquisition of supplies, what is more probable than that the irresistible military power will not be scrapped, but will be used to remedy the exhaustion?

This is the classic procedure of the conqueror, and this procedure is so obvious, and indeed so necessary, that any conqueror must adopt it. But why, if the conqueror must feed himself on conquests, is it not equally true that those who resist him victoriously must do the same? The question is of the utmost importance: why was it, for example, that Napoleon could not stop till he was stopped at Waterloo while the allies, in 1815, were able and did in fact stop and did establish a fairly long peace? The answer, I think, is clear. The conqueror's peace extends only as far as his military power; he can never govern with the consent of the conquered and

Germans Solidly Back Herr Hitler, Lawrence States

Elimination of Dictator Wouldn't End War in Europe

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Long after the scheme hatched in Pittsburgh to offer a $1,000,000 reward for the capture of Herr Hitler is forgotten, the reasoning which prompted the plan will remain as one of the principal fallacies and illusions that have become imbedded in present-day opinion.

The theory that Herr Hitler's decision caused the outbreak of the present war has been coupled with the idea that if he were eliminated peace would come. Again and again issues have been personalized without regard to the fundamental problems that lie back of the issues.

Few of the diplomats here, who know Europe, consider that the elimination of Hitler would mean peace. They recognize only too clearly that the German people are today supporting Hitler in war partly because of propaganda, to be sure, but mostly because patriotism is easily aroused when foreign armies and navies are threatening at the doors of the nation.

It is, of course, easy to simplify the European war by centering its whole program around one man. But totalitarianism is not the creation of one man, nor does it stay in effect because one man wills it. Economic conditions give rise to dictatorships. If the German people wanted to get rid of Herr Hitler tomorrow they could readily do so. They exiled their emperor in 1918. The Russian revolutionists murdered their czar during the last war. Until the German people believe that Herr Hitler alone stands between them and a genuine peace they will cling to their present leader. Every bit of official information here points to that conclusion. The solidarity of the German people in war behind Hitler is one of the things some Americans may not believe is logical, but nevertheless it is a fact attested by every returning observer.

It is true that a controlled press and suppression of freedom of speech have allowed only a pro-government point of view to develop in Germany, but it is also true that, when war is on and an external enemy is threatening, domestic differences are customarily sidetracked in favor of uniform support of the government in office.

Study Causes . . . If the $1,000,000 which the Pittsburgh folks have available were to be spent in an impartial study of the causes that led to the present war—the events of the post-war period and the mistakes of national and international policy between 1920 and 1930—much valuable light might possibly be shed on the best means of preserving peace when once the present war comes to an end.

The issues are rarely personal, but impersonal. Herr Hitler saw the ruins of the infant German republic which struggled for a place in the sun, but which was loaded down by reparations payments and allied burdens that weakened the democratic government in Berlin. The terrible inflation of 1923 brought economic chaos which by 1933 had created a fertile field for Nazi doctrine and leadership. Herr Hitler capitalized the situation. If he were eliminated tomorrow, his successor in the Nazi ranks would promptly rally the German people. Until Naziism is countered by something that the German nation considers more advantageous for its future, it will make little difference what the personnel of the government happens to be in Berlin.

The same tendency to personalize issues exists in America. Many people believe that radicalism would come to an end in America if President Roosevelt did not run for Tentative dates for the school are June 10-14, inclusive. The course is being offered as part of the state police training program.

County Clerks to Hold Conclave at Manitowoc

Arrangements for the annual convention of the Wisconsin County Clerks association at Manitowoc, June 17, 18 and 19 have been started, according to John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk, secretary of the state association. Albert W. Tetzlaff, Manitowoc, is chairman of the program committee.

Minds and $1,000,000 for research would help democracy here and abroad find ways of restoring to peoples the power to make peace and keep it. For although the war has gone on for eight months, the whole world still waits to learn what is to be the basis for peace when once armies and navies and airplanes have exhausted themselves and bankrupted the treasures of the belligerent governments.

In the field of labor, the personal issues have grown even more dramatic. There are many who stand on the side-lines who think the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. could get together if it were not for the class in personalities of William Green and John L. Lewis. Hence, the cry for the elimination of them both has often been raised. But it is not the controlling factor. The cleavage between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. is deeper than mere personalities. It goes to fundamental issues. But it is often easier for the public to rationalize problems by personalizing them and hence there is a tendency to seek simplification by merely finding a way of disposing of the chief persons involved.

Indubitably the unsolved problems which give demagogues their chance to win public power must be solved and that's where impartial

Fire Alarm Sounded But There's No Fire And Child Isn't Lost

Weyauwega — Telephone operators were busy for several minutes Wednesday night, answering queries as to the reason for the fire alarm which went off at approximately 10:30. The answer to the oft-repeated query, "Where's the fire?" was an excited: "It isn't a fire. Walter Richter's little boy is lost."

David 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richter, had been placed in the care of a neighbor family, Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence, for the evening, while Mrs. Richter took care of her work at Hotel Dobbin, and Walter attended the night school events at the high school.

Upon their return, Mr. Richter walked over to the Lawrence home, looked through the window and failed to see David playing on the floor, which was his habitual custom. Immediately, Walter thought the lad had left the house and was wandering around in the snow storm.

The father and mother searched everywhere they could imagine for an hour or more, and then turned in an alarm to the fire department. Mr. Lawrence, who is one of the lo-

THE MILLION DOLLAR REWARD FOR HITLER

Let those who rush to print burning words against Dr. Church the 82-year-old former head of the Carnegie Foundation, for publishing the remarkable reward of a million dollars for the capture of Adolf Hitler in sound condition, hold their tongues and go into reflection instead.

Church may be chucking up his sleeve at the novel way he has induced some thinking by the multitude that too often takes faith for substance.

Instead of the offer being ridiculous merely because it is impossible upon its face may it not be a wise and deep movement to try to get the public to think beyond the superficial stage, to look past these mere strutting actors that take their turns for a few brief moments on the stage of life, and try to examine the fundamentals that make for war, that have made today a great and gifted people like the Germans an apparent menace to the world.

Does anyone think that were Hitler captured the Nazi movement would stop? Does anyone imagine that if Hitler had never been born we wouldn't be having today precisely what we have?

Why does not the world turn back to the last time it was burned by putting its hand on a hot stove?

Why does it not examine into October and November of 1918 when five continents were demanding that the Kaiser should leave the stage in shame and disgrace?

Those European statesmen who were very familiar with the hundred causes of World War No. 1 and particularly their own bungling hands that helped to bring it on, were loudest at the head of the pack demanding: "The man must go!"

And while the five continents were demanding that the man with the withered arm and the withered head be literally burned at the stake, their leaders, screaming the loudest with the same demand but knowing the falsity at the bottom of it, were secretly enjoying that this Kaiser went into a woodchopping game in Holland at which he has stayed ever since.

Our own America, headed by the idealist Wilson, almost a perfect twin for the present president, also took up the hue and cry against the same goat. Wrote Mr. Wilson:

"If the government of the United States must deal with the military masters and the monarchial autocrats of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later in regard to the international obligations of the German empire, it must demand not peace negotiations but surrender. Nothing can be gained by leaving this essential thing unsaid."

Now note the exact words there written and their precise implications. If Germany would drive out the Kaiser "peace negotiations" would be entered into with it but if it failed to do so "surrender" must be demanded. Bear that promise in mind and observe how un-speakably it was broken when the rest of the world was bleeding a prostrate Germany and thus preparing the fagots for the present fire.

And so, because a goat was needed as a sacrifice to mislead popular opinion, the German war lord washed his hands of the agonies of his own people and in craven fear crept across the Dutch border.

And what of the "peace negotiations" now? What of all the promises made to the German people and the German nation after they did get rid of the "monarchial autocrats" who were accused of causing the war?

It is necessary to travel to Versailles and walk its mirrored galleries and gaze upon its gilded frames to understand why the world is in the throes of war again. For it was in Versailles in 1919 that the present war actually started.

The opening session of the peace conference was called by the French president, Poincare, who congratulated the representatives of all the nations that "you have thought that the terms of peace ought to be settled among ourselves before they are communicated to those against whom we have together fought the good fight."

So, for bending the knee to world opinion, for staging riots all over Germany, for chasing the Kaiser and other monarchial autocrats out of the land, for breaking up the thrones, for becoming a republic, the new nation of Germany found that it was denied "peace negotiations," and abjectly compelled to "surrender," that the rest of the world would not negotiate with it or discuss any of its problems, would not even listen to it, but in secret conclave fixed upon the penalties to which it must submit.

That was a sorry day for honor of the democracies.

When M. Clemenceau, made permanent chairman of the peace conference, outlined the work ahead he declared that "the first question is as follows: the responsibility of the authors of the war," and he pointed to a pamphlet already written by eminent jurists entitled "The Criminal Responsibility of the Emperor Wilhelm II."

Following out this childish pantomime the peace treaty submitted to Germany for signature compelled her to admit that she was solely responsible for the war and that the Kaiser must be delivered over to the enemy for trial.

It was known at the time, of course, that the Kaiser was in Holland. It was also known that Holland would not deliver him and that to ask her to do so was a reflection upon her independence as a nation.

But the pantomime continued. Demand was loudly made upon Holland, French and English generals pounded tables and rattled their sabers. But as if by a previous understanding, Holland denied the right of anyone to take a man from her soil against whom no proof of crime had been submitted, only proof that upon his birth he had come across a certain system long in existence and that he was incapable of working it as have been many others before and since.

The world needs to be reminded of the reply of Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau upon behalf of Germany to the peace terms:

"We came to Versailles in the expectation of receiving a peace proposal based on the agreed principles. We were firmly resolved to do everything in our power with a view of fulfilling the grave obligations which we had undertaken. We hoped for the peace of justice which had been promised to us. We were ashamed when we read in documents the demands made upon us, the victorious violence of our enemies. The more deeply we penetrate into the spirit of this treaty the more convinced we become of the impossibility of carrying it out. The exactions of this treaty are more than the German people can bear."

The world in general is acquainted with the terms of that treaty. It stripped the Reich of practically all its property and then so encumbered it with obligations and restrictions that it could hardly get its breath to say nothing of getting to its feet until it repudiated the whole thing.

No wonder a moody, wandering pair with something of the neurotic disposition of the Kaiser could perform the phenomenon of attaining leadership of a nation that had been tricked beyond endurance. And little wonder that Hitler's word is utterly worthless. The democracies taught him well the foolishness of keeping one's word.

Dr. Church of Carnegie may be a puckish old man who has made the million dollar offer just to laugh at people.

For jeering at Hitler is just as worthwhile as jeering at the Kaiser or at a wooden Indian or some great stone face.

Hitler is only the rash caused by a disease. And doctors do not treat mere symptoms, not if they want to cure the patient.

OUT OF THE CHICAGO MILK STRIKE

Chicago milk dealers pose a pretty problem by the advertisement they print defending their position in the pending milk strike.

We have reference in particular to these claimed facts:

"In order to get the milk to you we employ union labor and pay the highest wages for milk wagon drivers in any city in the United States."

"The prevailing wage is an average of $52.00 per week, a $48 weekly base wage plus commissions averaging $4.00."

"Ten years ago there were 7,400 men delivering milk to homes in Chicago. Today that number has shrunk to less than 4,500. 3,000 men have lost their jobs although there are more milk dealers in the city today than ten years ago."

The milk dealers reasoned that 40 per cent of the milk drivers had already lost their jobs because delivery had become so expensive that more people than ever were buying from stores directly.

If the quoted claim of the dealers is correct we have another example of higher prices making for diminishing returns.

There are millions of housewives in America, and a proper proportion in Chicago, who must sharpen pencils carefully on their budgets to get by. They start whittling at the commonest articles in which they are interested such as food, clothing, rent and the like.

They are quick as lightning to note when the cost of an essential article gets out of line.

If milk is too high they will cut down on the quantity used or find some other way, such as going on foot to the milk depots or shops, to protect themselves.

When they employ the former method the farm feels the shock in lessened demand. When they employ the latter method milk drivers are released from employment.

Chicago should not be paying the highest wages to milk drivers in the country unless Chicago workers in other industries are receiving the highest wages in the country. And they are not.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—The hot battle over the transfer of the civil aeronautics authority isn't the only reorganization row on the president's hands. It hasn't leaked out yet, but Roosevelt kicked up another in the navy department while Secretary Charles Edison was away at the Pacific naval games.

Edison was painfully surprised when he got back to his desk, because the reorganization involves a change he proposed himself but which FDR stymied. He is also grieved because hitherto he and Roosevelt always have seen eye-to-eye on all things naval.

The change involves the shifting of the armor division from the ordnance bureau to the bureau of construction and repair. Edison advocated this to prevent any repetition of the construction scandals of last summer, when it was discovered that about thirty of the new destroyers were top-heavy and tended to roll over in the water.

What happened was that the ordnance bureau had specified a certain thickness of armor plate, which made the destroyers too heavy above the water line. The bureau of construction and repair had charge of building the vessels, but it passed the buck back to the ordnance bureau for specifying such thick armor plate. So all the admirals blamed everyone else, and the taxpayer was the goat. He had to pay for 60 tons of lead added to the keel of each destroyer.

"DEFENSIVE ARMAMENT"
To prevent any more boners like this, Secretary Edison proposed making the armor division part of the bureau of construction and repair, and asked Congressman Carl Vinson, chairman of the naval affairs committee, to incorporate this change in a naval reorganization bill.

But suddenly the ordnance bureau, jealous of losing any gold brain, stepped in. Rear Admiral W. R. Furlong, chief of ordnance, sold the committee on the view that armor was a "defensive armament" and as such a part of ordnance operations as the making of "offensive armaments," such as guns and shells. Offensive and defensive armaments are so closely inter-related, Furlong argued, that it would be impractical to separate them.

The shift was eliminated from the bill. Blocked in this direction, Edison resorted to direct action. He drafted an executive order placing armor under the construction bureau and sent it to the president. Believing here would be no hitch, he then departed for the Pacific maneuvers.

But from past experience with the brass hats, Edison should have known better than to leave his pot unwatched. Soon as he got out of town they rushed to Congressman Vinson, who hurried to the White House and persuaded Roosevelt to rescind the order.

What happens next, now that Edison is back, remains to be seen.

POLITICAL CHAFF
Conversations have been taking place in Tulsa, Oklahoma, with H. L. Phillips, the oil man, for the purchase of the New York Yankees. If the deal goes through Jim Farley will be offered the presidency of the ball club. . . . Young Archie Roosevelt, who baited the Communists at the American Youth Congress, may become a reporter for The Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review. . . . "Roosevelt Again," third term campaign booklet authored by Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, has run through two issues totaling 100,000 copies and the publishers have orders for another 50,000. . . . Since the Nazi invasion of Scandinavia, Wisconsin's ambitious GOP Secretary of State Fred Zimmerman has decided not to run against Governor "Julius-the-bust" Heil, but to try for the seat of Senator Bob LaFollette. Bob opposed the lifting of the arms embargo, and Zimmerman figures this will hurt him with the large Scandinavian population of Wisconsin.

BACHELOR FRANK MURPHY
When he was attorney general, Frank Murphy was one of the most social bachelors in Washington. But since his elevation to the Supreme court the handsome, bushy-browed Michigan lawyer is a changed man. He avoids the limelight; and the murmurs of wedding bells that used to twinkle in the society columns no longer are heard.

This is worrying some of his friends. And the other day Representative John Dingell of Michigan, father of three children, gave Murphy a fatherly lecture.

"Frank," he said, "you ought to be thinking seriously about marriage. You're 50 now and if you wait much longer it may be too late. I'd hate to see you grow old alone."

"You're right, John, and it may interest you to know that I have already taken a step in the direction of matrimony."

"Marvelous! I'm mighty glad to hear that. Have you popped the question yet?"

"No," smiled Murphy, "but I'm building a house."

WASHED NLRB FILE
One of the most important cases pending before the national labor relations board is that of the American Potash and Chemical corporation, which is charged by the AFL Borax and Potash Workers union with coercion to block collective bargaining. The labor board ruled against the company, and the decision was sustained by a circuit court and even by the U. S. Supreme court.

Contempt of court proceedings are now pending against the firm to compel it to obey the verdict. But the confidential labor board files on the case very mysteriously have vanished—somewhere between the NLRB and the House committee investigating it.

Adding a note of peculiarity to the mystery is the fact that Edmund Toland, now general counsel of the house investigating committee, once represented American Potash and Chemical. Furthermore, he represented the company in this very same case.

Toland hotly denies anything about the missing records. So does Russell Whitesell, committee secretary, who insists they have never been in his possession. Both admit that the files of the Wheeling Steel Corporation case, in which Toland also participated as private counsel, were obtained from the NLRB by a member of his staff while he was in Florida.

But Whitesell says that as soon as he heard about it he ordered the records returned, and Toland asserts that the assistant "did not even examine the entire file. He was merely looking for a letter in connection with our 'blacklisting' record."

Meanwhile the big mystery remains: where are the missing confidential records?

THE WRONG GOATS
Inventor Lester P. Barlow recently suggested that his new super-explosive be tried out first on dumb animals—preferably by exploding a bomb in a field of goats tethered 50 feet apart. The Washington (D. C.) Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals jumped to its feet with a quick protest.

We are happy to join with the S.P.C.A. on this issue. After all, the Barlow explosive is intended to be used on human beings. Its great boons should not be wasted on four-legged animals who are too dumb to appreciate the blessings of modern civilization.—World-Herald (Omaha, Neb.).

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—That there's nothing new under the sun has become such a trite phrase that anyone who reads may run off at the mouth with it a dozen times a day without getting more response than a casual "ain't it so?"

N evertheless, ever since the European wild-fire burned into a widespread conflagration and spread to the Finnish forests, reams have been written and more reams talked about "new methods" of warfare. With the German foray into Scandinavia, this talk has broken out anew. Commentators and military observers are at it hammer and tongs.

But Wait A Bit

Armies, guns and supplies, dropped from the skies—marvelous! Thousands of troops ferried by plane across the Skagerrak into suffering Norway—wonderful! The old troop transport system soon will be obsolete. Better start junking the ships. Better start building armadas of air-skyscrapers.

Submarines and planes: the brand new way of dealing blitzkrieg death. That A. Hitler and his gang—what geniuses! They've made the only really original contribution to warfare in our generation.

Wait a minute before you start passing out any credits—if credit it can be called—to A. Hitler, Stalin & Kammerads, Inc. Let's take a look at three letters dug up by the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Letter No. 1, dated 1784 and written by a man who had just witnessed several balloon ascensions: "It appears, as you observe, to be a discovery of great importance, and what may possibly give a new turn to human affairs. Convincing sovereigns of the folly of wars may perhaps be one effect of it; since it will be impracticable for the most potent of them to guard his dominions. Five thousand balloons, capable of raising two men each, could not cost more than five ships of the line; and where is the prince who can afford so to cover his country with troops for its defense, as that 10,000 men descending from the clouds might not in many places do an infinite deal of mischief, before a force could be brought together to repel them?"

The author? Benjamin Franklin! But wait. Go back more than 200 years, to 1670, and hear what Father Francesco Lana had to say about an airplane which he invented, but which, because of poverty, he could not build:

"It may be thought that God will never suffer this invention to take effect, because of the many consequences which may disturb the civil governments of men. For who sees not that no city can be secure against attack, since our ship may at any time be placed directly over it and descending down, may discharge soldiers. The same would happen to private houses or ships at sea. And this they may do not only to ships but to great buildings, castles, cities, with such security that they which cast these things down from a great height out of gunshot cannot on the other side be offended by those below."

And that's not all: two years before that old Leonardo da Vinci drew marvelous plans for a submarine, and in his notes set forth this reason for not making his invention public:

"How by an appliance many are able to remain for some time under water; how and why I do not describe my method of remaining under water for as long a time as I can remain without food; and this I do not publish or divulge on account of the evil nature of men who would practice assassination at the bottom of the seas, by breaking the ships in their weakest parts and sinking them together with the crews who are in them."

So you see if there's anything new under Mars, Hitler et al., didn't think of it first.

Looking Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, May 2, 1930

Damage estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000 in Appleton and immediate vicinity was caused by the windstorm which swept through here about 9:30 the previous night. The most severe damage was the destruction of the south and the south half of the roof of St. Mary Catholic church, the unroofing of the new Fuhrman Canning company building, W. Spencer street. The damage to the church was estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000 and the cannery company's loss was to run between $9,000 and $12,000.

About 50 feet of the storage shed owned by Henry Schabo and Sons fuel and building material dealers on W. College avenue was destroyed and part of the roof was torn off the old Willy Milling company mill on W. College avenue. The roof broke a pole owned by the power company.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, May 7, 1915

The Lusitania, Cunard liner, sunk at 2:30 that afternoon. The ship had sailed from New York with 1,300 aboard a few days previous and was reported to have been torpedoed off the British coast at 2 o'clock that morning.

The Mt. Olive English Lutheran church had been organized the previous Sunday afternoon with G. D. Ziegler named president; E. W. Wainman, vice president; F. Schultz, secretary; H. Wichman, treasurer. Elders elected were L. Lesseyong, R. Newman and F. Weinkauf. It was the third English Lutheran congregation in Appleton.

Appleton Elks were to go to Oshkosh for the Elks state convention in June in a caravan of autos. A committee composed of D. P. Steinberg, Charles Rumpf, Herman Schlegel and Charles Ender were lining up the auto owners.

REC. MANNING

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—The first actual statement that Governor Heil has clamped a censorship on his bureau of research and its director comes from Director August Frey himself, who next to the governor is the capitol's outstanding current personality and a man given to expressing himself frankly and pungently on all matters.

Frey the other day bluntly told a reporter that he had been told "to keep my mouth shut." Earlier Governor Heil had informed capitol newsmen that any news about Frey's department would henceforth come out of the executive office, and only with his personal approval. It was a somewhat surprising order, since Frey and Heil have been intimate friends and cronies for years, and followed closely the governor's veto of Frey's elaborately publicized plans for economizing in the state highway department.

There is other evidence to show that the governor isn't paying as much attention to the research bureau as the capitol expected on the basis of his personal sponsorship of the idea. It is known, for example, that Frey has completed intensive examinations of the workings of several big state departments, including the board of health and the public service commission, and has filed his report, together with various recommendations, in the governor's office. To date, however, the governor has neither discussed the contents of the Frey message, or acknowledged that he has received it.

CASHMAN WELCOME
Let there be no doubt about the gracious welcome which John E. Cashman received from the Progressives last week when he let it be known that he has rejoined the LaFollette fold and will seek office on the Progressive ticket this year.

Cashman's decision to run for the state senate as a Progressive means two things to Progressive experts: 1. That the veteran politician, reading the signs in his bairwick, sees good chance for a return of the Progressives to power; 2. That the Progressive ticket will get a boost by his candidacy in an important up-state district.

LEGION QUESTION
Reports reaching the ears of high state capitol officials indicate that the American Legion intends to make the court fight for the $50,000 the legislature voted to underwrite its Milwaukee convention this year, despite Governor Heil's personal guarantee of $27,000 for that purpose.

Thus far the appropriation, together with a similar but smaller allotment for the DAV convention at Green Bay, has been held up because of doubts about its validity. Incidentally, a lot of people in the capitol would like to see the question litigated because it is one of the most delicate, but important, constitutional questions to arise here in recent years.

HEIL ABSENCES
Governor Heil, who was fond of announcing publicly during his first months in office that all state employees should render "a day's work for a day's pay," is going to find plenty of criticism of that sort coming his way during the forthcoming campaign because of his continued absence from his capitol office.

During recent months Heil has spent the great bulk of his time in Milwaukee, and has several times gratuitously defended himself by saying that he frequently works

Personal Health Talks

RIGHT LUNCH FOR VITE

The typical American quick lunch, gobbled and washed down with liquid by millions of malnourished people engaged in business, is like the millions of malnourished people, checkbook of calories but seriously short in essential minerals and vitamins—essential for the highest attainable degree of functional efficiency. preservation of the characteristics of youth, vite. Have to continue talking about lunch today. Vite is fully defined on p. 7 of the two-bits manual "The 7 Keys to Vite" by Ol' Doc Brady who, by the way, is pretty crochety about replying to queries or requests when correspondents fail to inclose a properly stamped addressed envelope for his convenience.

Not that the popular hurry-up lunch entirely accounts for the sub-nutrition so prevalent in America, but assay of the lunch gives a good indication of what ails most "well" people.

Instead of mentioning items which are extremely deficient in the essential minerals and vitamins, the not at all wanting in caloric value, taste and digestibility, perhaps we had better outline the right lunch for vite and leave the reader to make up his own mind how much his present diet has to do with his nutritional deficiency and how far he may be willing to go with reform in dietary habit in order to gain or regain vite.

First, then, here is the basic or model health lunch as given in the corrective protective or rejuvenation diet in the "7 Keys":

One-third head of lettuce (16)
Two fresh vegetables (80)
Pat of butter (95)
Two glasses of milk (320)
Fresh fruit (80)

The lunch yields not quite 600 calories. Note that every item (with possible exception of salad dressing) has high mineral and vitamin content; even the salad dressing may provide vitamin E (it made with cottonseed oil, peanut oil, olive oil or sesame oil).

If more food is desired for lunch, it had better be in the form of another glass of milk. In any case not less than a pint of milk is absolutely indispensable in the right lunch for vite. To a limited degree, when there is a genuine idiosyncrasy against milk, such as allergy, cheese, what ever variety one likes, cream, butter, evaporated milk, malted milk, dried powdered milk, buttermilk, chocolate or cocoa or caramel flavored milk, or some fancy milk shake drink may serve as a substitute.

If the vegetables are cooked it is important that the water in which they are cooked be added to the food, for it contains considerable mineral matter and vitamins (especially vitamin B). Preferably include at least one raw vegetable besides lettuce or other salad greens—say turnip, potato, cabbage, carrot, radish, tomato, cucumber, celery.

Some meat? Certainly, any fresh meat you like—AFTER you have disposed of your pint of milk. There is no objection to fresh meat in a health diet, but milk is more essential.

What, bread, toast, rolls, cake, pie, pudding, ice cream or cereal after all that lunch? We'll discuss that later.

Rasmussen Firm Gets Contract to Pave 41 Beltline

Work on Uncompleted Section of Superhighway Will Start This Month

The state highway commission announced today that a contract has been awarded to J. Rasmussen and Sons, Oshkosh, to pave 3319 miles of Superhighway 41 west of Appleton. The Rasmussen bid for grade, drain and concrete surfacing the section which will complete the superhighway beltline in the county is $75,837.

Rasmussen said today that the work will be started probably between May 15 and 20. While laying the concrete will take about 20 days, the entire project will be completed in about six weeks, he said. A crew of about 60 or 70 men will be employed on the project when the work is fully underway, Rasmussen stated.

Contracts totaling $847,556 for 10 projects, upon which the first bids of the 1940 construction season were opened earlier this week, have been awarded by the state highway commission.

Two large concrete overpasses were built on the route a couple years ago, and last year the section of road was graded. The grading job was done by the Lathrop Construction company, Madison.

When the concrete paving is completed, Highway 41 traffic will be routed completely outside the city. At the present time, the highway joins with Highway 47, just north of Appleton and then goes west in conjunction with Highway 10, Wisconsin avenue, to where the present superhighway paving ends.

school and standing up to display garments which they had laundered in Rinsos many times and which still retained their freshness. The women lived up to Miss Ferguson's comment on their sense of humor by their spontaneous laughter at humorous incidents which were always a part of any cooking school, and applauded the lecturer's announcement that she baked a cake for the policemen on duty at the theater.

Mrs. F. Hammes, route 2, Appleton, became the owner of her choice of gas ranges from either Wichmann Furniture company or the Wisconsin Michigan Power company this morning, and a large number of other women took home valuable gifts.

Makes Steak Pie
Cream puffs to make the mouth water in anticipation, a banana layer cake that fairly oozed goodness, and a beefsteak pie that was delectable enough for any party dish were concocted before the eyes of the crowd of over 1,900 homemakers this morning, and the delivery men from Badger Pantry and Johnson Shoe Rebuilders were presented with tasty chicken legs which were fried during the session.

In making the cream puffs Miss Ferguson pointed out that one must have the water actually boiling or the dumplings will not puff up. She suggested that to avoid having the puffs soggy inside, one should turn off the heat when the puffs are baked, open the oven door and allow them to remain in the oven for 15 or 20 minutes to become crisp.

As a reward for writing letters about their experiences with Rinsos, a number of women received giant boxes of Rinsos from Miss Ferguson, who also presented six women with 6-pound cans of Spry.

The orchestra program today included several novelty numbers such as "Russian Rag" with Mickey McCuskey playing the violin solo, "Josephine" arranged with a chorus of "Annabelle" and featuring Ray Weekwerck on the accordion, and "Woodpecker's Song." Bob Lee was given spontaneous applause for his vocals, especially in "Your Eyes Have Told Me So" and "Night and Day." Other numbers by the orchestra today were "Gaucho Serenade," "Lover's Lullaby," "Playmates," and "I'll See You in My Dreams."

Miss Ferguson in her farewell talk paid tribute to Mrs. Harold Ferron, organist during the four days of the cooking school.

Norway to Sue For Peace After Allies Withdraw

therefore assumed something was going on which I was not supposed to witness.

It can now be stated freely that the Steinkjer fighting proved somewhat disastrous for the British. In heavy fighting on April 21 an entire British battalion was cut up by a German company. (A company is about one-fourth the size of a battalion, which is usually about 800 men.)

What really has hindered the Germans from advancing for several days past has been the heroic defense by Norwegian volunteer units.

Fight Looks Hopeless
The Norwegians fight against the invaders now appears hopeless.

The Norwegians are suffering from lack of ammunition and other supplies.

It was told that their total munitions would not suffice for 10 minutes of heavy firing.

The British left great quantities of supplies behind them at Namsos, including trucks and high-wheeled army cars, when they embarked on six large transport ships which were escorted by several destroyers.

All available Norwegian trucks and cars have been ordered to rush these supplies down to the Norwegian troops remaining on the Steinkjer front.

Even so the fight appears hopeless to the extreme and the Norwegians now are being encircled.

ABANDON STEINKJER

Stockholm.—(P)—Reliable sources disclosed today that British forces abandoned the Steinkjer front last night by ship from Namsos, leaving as the only British troops in Norway those besieging Germans at Narvik, far above the arctic circle.

French forces were said to have departed from the Steinkjer front, 80 miles north of German-held Trondheim, one night ahead of the British.

Meanwhile German forces flooded northward through the broad southern lobe of Norway to follow up the earlier British retreat from the Andalsnes area, south of Trondheim, for a consolidation of positions in roughly half of Norway.

This area is inhabited by six-sevenths of Norway's 3,000,000 population.

To face the tide of Germany's mechanized and motorized forces of occupation the allies were said to have left a thin line of Norwegian soldiery.

Can't Resist Long
Any organized resistance by the Norwegians appeared to be only a matter of days and perhaps merely hours.

British troops were said to have fallen back to Namsos from the Steinkjer line and to have embarked under a rain of German bombs which killed 30 persons and wounded 60.

German airmen, trying to turn the withdrawal into a rout, made repeated attacks on Namsos, spreading new ruin and churning the ashes and debris of former attacks. Buildings were said to be smoldering and docks were a vista of tangled wreckage.

The German lines of field gray-green moved relentlessly up the Glomma river valley toward Trondheim, scattering Norwegians before them. Norwegians, which the German advance guard had relinquished once, was reported recaptured.

Military observers said the Norwegians could hardly hope to continue their resistance in central Norway without allied aid.

And it appeared on the basis of the latest reports of allied withdrawals that no such aid remained in Norway, save the forces ringing the German garrison at the ore port of Narvik, more than 400 miles north of Trondheim.

America's appetite for apple pie has for years made the bakeries a big market for the apple grower. But bakers would probably be able to sell even more apple pies if they could buy apples ready sliced and retaining the fresh tart flavor of fruit just off the tree. Moreover, if apples could be prepared and conveniently packaged at the point of origin, as frozen pie cherries are, this would save the expense of shipping and storage, and make them available to the baker in a form he could use without waste. Chemist at the frozen pack laboratory report that if apple slices have a quick bath in hot water before freezing the slices remain tender and do not discolor.

Losses by Corn Borer Prevented By Prompt Action

Clean Plowing Is Good Control Measure, Plant Dairy Chief Says

Prompt action by Wisconsin farmers in controlling the corn borer will insure against losses of corn crops needed as fodder for Wisconsin dairy cattle and protect sweet corn grown for the state's canning industry. E. L. Chambers, state plant industry chief, states in a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus.

Damage caused by the corn borer can be cut to a minimum by clean plowing, followed by other careful cultural practices, Chambers advised. Before June, when the borer moths begin to emerge and lay their eggs for future generations, all remnants of corn crops in infested areas should be shredded, burned or buried and all weeds with stems thick enough to contain the borer should be burned or plowed under, he emphasized.

If clean plowing has been accomplished with the aid of a new and specially designed 16-inch plow, or if the trash has been dragged under cleanly by use of wire chains attached to the plow, the debris in the fields can now be taken care of quite satisfactorily.

Because the moths prefer to lay their eggs on the larger, earlier planted corn, it has been found advisable to plant a small patch considerably in advance of the usual time in order to attract them. Thus, the infestations can be concentrated in a small patch, he explained, and

Renovated Pastures Yield More Grass, Fewer Weeds, Grubs

Renovation of pastures on the demonstration project near Fennimore has increased pasture production by a third, required weed and grubworm populations by more than 75 per cent, and produced 50 per cent more grazing days than regular bluegrass, according to information received by County Agent J. F. Magnus.

Joe Pierre, agronomist at the project, reports that the 1939 yields on pastures that were renovated in 1936, 1937, 1938, as compared with a check plot on each pasture, showed the following results: The average yield of dry matter per acre was 3,877 pounds on the renovated areas, compared with 2,722 pounds on the untreated areas. Approximately 51,400 weeds per acre were found in renovated areas as compared with 219,200 on the check plots. An average of 26,000 grubs were found per acre on the renovated pastures, as compared with 138,500 on the checks. Renovated pastures provided an average of 124 grazing days per acre as compared to 88 days on regular bluegrass. The renovation work on most of the pastures studied was done in the spring, according to Pierre. Lime and fertilizer was applied, and a good seedbed was prepared. A mixture of 14 pounds of sweet clover, 4 pounds of red clover, and 2 pounds of timothy per acre was sown. Variations according to soil conditions were made in this mixture, and sometimes two pecks of oats were sown as a nurse crop.

Farmers Getting Lower Price for Dairy Products

Report Decline During Period Between March 15 and April 15

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Although the general level of farm commodity prices quoted on local markets throughout the country rose slightly between March 15 and the middle of April, the Agricultural Marketing service reports declines in the prices received for dairy and poultry products.

Prices received by farmers for butterfat, whole milk, and butter declined seasonally from mid-March to mid-April. Chicken prices were about the same as the preceding month but substantially below a year earlier. Prices of eggs showed a further seasonal decline.

On April 15, local market prices of butterfat averaged 27.5 cents per pound, compared with 28.4 cents per pound a month earlier and 21.4 cents in mid-April of last year.

Milk production during March exceeded production during March last year by about 2 per cent, but prices received by farmers for whole milk sold at wholesale average, $1.75 per 100 pounds. Though this was a decline of 9 cents from a month earlier, it compares with $1.46 per 100 pounds received in mid-April a year ago, the report continues. Local market prices of farm butter and retail prices of milk sold by farmers direct to consumers also declined seasonally from March 15 to April 15.

Farmers received an average of 12.9 cents per pound for chickens on April 15, compared with 12.8 cents in mid-March and 15.5 in April last year.

In mid-April, farmers were receiving an average of 15 cents per dozen for eggs as compared with 15.4 cents a month ago and 15.5 cents in mid-April of last year.

Bishop Mueller Speaks Sunday at Freedom Church

Moravian Congregation Will Hold Rededication Service

A rededication service at the Freedom Moravian church will take place at 11 o'clock Sunday morning with Bishop Karl A. Mueller, D.D., Watertown, Wis., president of the western district executive board, preaching the sermon. Dr. Mueller, who is also vice president of the provincial elders conference of the northern province of the Moravian church, will give the rededication prayer.

During the last few weeks the church has undergone interior redecoration of walls, floors and furniture. Some rebuilding has been done and on a front panel of the church, the church seal has been painted. The seal consists of a lamb bearing a banner and cross, and in a circle around it are the words, "Vict Agnes Noster Eum Sequamur," meaning "Our Lamb Has Conquered. Let Us Follow Him." A set of new walnut wood offering plates which have been donated as a memorial to the late Mrs. Caroline Sievert by her children, Miss Alma Sievert, Mrs. Emil Jens and Albert Sievert, will be used for the first time at this service. A new hymn board has been given by Miller and Piehl Lumber company of Seymour.

The choir will sing "Great King of Glory, Come" by C. D. Emerson, from the new anthem books which will be used for the first time. The offering will be used to help defray the expenses of redecoration.

Ancient Background
The Moravian church takes its name from the fact that Moravia during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries constituted one of the chief seats of that church. The church was organized in 1437 by followers of John Hus after his death, about 60 years before Luther began his activities and more than a century before the Anglican church was fully established.

The Rev. A. L. Bautz, pastor of the Freedom church since last July, will attend a church synod and Moravian young people's conference this summer, and during his absence services will be directed by the former pastor, the Rev. Henry Richter, 1122 W. Winnebago street, Appleton.

Clifford Frost and Mrs. Ervin Felton assisting.
St. John Evangelical church, Black Creek, will have Sunday school at 9:30 and church services at 10:30 Sunday morning. The sermon topic will be "A Narrow Way." The Evangelical league will meet at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Low mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Mary Catholic church, Black Creek, and at 8:15 at St. Denis church, Shiocton. High mass will be sung at 10 o'clock at St. Lawrence church, Navarino.

Mother, Daughter Party
A mother and daughter banquet for Community Baptist church, Hortonville, will take place at 6 o'clock next Wednesday evening in Community hall under auspices of the Baptist Ladies Aid society. The banquet will not be a public affair this year. At the 11 o'clock service at the church Sunday morning, the sermon will be entitled "Our Tenth Anniversary Communion Service." For the Bible lesson at 10 o'clock, the subject will be "Isaiah Gives God's Invitation."

Sunday masses at St. Peter and Paul Catholic church, Hortonville, will be at 8 and 10 o'clock. Christian Mothers and St. Ann's societies will receive holy communion at the 8 o'clock mass.

Divine services at Bethlehem Lutheran church, Hortonville, will be in English at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

Ascension day services were held Thursday night at Immanuel Lutheran church, town of Cicero. The Rev. Mr. Buening, Pittsfield, was guest speaker. German services will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at Immanuel Lutheran church, Cicero, with Sunday school following immediately.

Suggest Test Planting Of Sunrise Raspberry

Sunrise, a new red raspberry, has been introduced for trial as a commercial variety by the federal bureau of plant industry, according to a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus.

The new raspberry was originated by Dr. George M. Darrow, in charge of small fruit investigations. It was selected from a cross between the Ranere and Latham varieties. Field tests show it has many of the good features of both parents. The Ranere long has been a leading variety in commercial areas because of its cold hardiness, disease resistance, and early ripening. But the canes are slender and the berries small. Latham, the other parent, is a heavy producer of large berries. The canes of the variety, however, are susceptible to various diseases, and the berries—while large—are only fair in quality.

County League Opens Sunday

Little Chute, Black Creek, Nichols, Shioton, Grange at Home

LITTLE CHUTE—Five teams will open the home schedule in the Outagamie County league Sunday afternoon with Galesburg invading Little Chute, Dale at Black Creek, Freedom at Nichols, Greenville Merchants at Shiocton and Greenville Grange host to last season's champs, Appleton.

Galesburg will have Lefty Neuman on the mound with Blink on the receiving end. Neuman is a curve ball artist with good control but lacks a fast one. Manager Roger Porter will show a veteran lineup, the one he had in the Land of Lakes league in which he finished in the 500 class last year.

Manager Vic Hartjes was pleased with the good showing of Red Boots, local southpaw who was credited with nine strikeouts against Kimberly last Sunday, a Fox River Valley league team. Dazz Van Thiel, a pepper box receiver, will catch. Tony "Diz" Guertis also is a capable chucker and may be on the mound before the game is over.

The Dale-Black Creek game also will be a bang-up contest with Baldy Hawk, veteran receiver, directing the Dale Community Club squad. He has two good chucks in Lefty Kaufman and his brother Erv. Baldy will be on the receiving end. John Miller and Bub Shaw are the Creekers' moundsmen and both are veterans. Miller is at the helm of the Creekers. Charlie Le Capitaine will do the big mitt and mask. The Black Creek team won the northern half championship but lost the league title to Appleton in the play-off.

Freedom at Nichols
Freedom tangles with Nichols at the latter park with Manager Shorty Plamann of the Sagoli tribe given a good chance to cop the decision. With Garvey on the mound and Weyers on the receiving end, Freedom will be heard from. Garvey started against Seymour last Sunday and showed a very deceptive curve. Weyers was a powerhouse at the plate. Plamann also can step on the mound in the clutch and packs a heavy stick at the plate. He collected a triple in the game against Seymour last Sunday. Nichols will have newcomers for a battery Bill Marks is at the helm this season.

Tommy Reider and Hod Van Ryin again will be Manager Gene Kloes' hopes for Appleton's 1940 pennant. The team will sport new uniforms and will travel to Greenville Grange diamond. Calvin Schultz is pilot of the Grangers and will depend on Archie Kucinski for mound duty. Elmer Schultz will do the receiving.

Greenville Merchants trek to Shiocton to battle Phil Palmer's tribe. Palmer was a member of New London's Northern State team last season but has been signed to pitch the Shiocton team. He also will do the receiving with Elvin Johnson on the mound. The Shiocton team started last season with practically a new ball club of youngsters and should reap the benefits this season. R. C. Trauba is the man behind the Merchants' squad at Greenville and is rated the most enthusiastic fan in the circuit. Luther Huebner will show on the Merchants' mound with Maes on the receiving end.

There will be a split schedule of 16 games this season with the winners of the first half meeting the winners of the second half in a 3-game series.

Hilbert "Kelly" Weller is president of the circuit, Heinie Schommer, is secretary and R. C. Trauba is treasurer.

Going Ahead With Beloit Carnival

Prepare to Stage Relays
Despite Adverse
Weather Conditions

Beloit—Despite recent adverse weather conditions, Beloit college officials prepared to run off the fourth annual Beloit Relay carnival this afternoon and tonight. Athletic Director Louis E. Means said that 370 athletes representing 29 midwestern colleges had entered. Rain and snow have slowed up the track, on which Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske hoped to better the world record for the three-quarter mile in a special paced race.

Trials are scheduled for the afternoon, with finals under the floodlights tonight.

Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, twice winner of the relay crown, remains the favorite to capture the team title again, with Grinnell, Knox, Beloit and Lawrence rated the principal contenders.

The program includes eight relays, six field events and two special races.

Entered in the special mile run are Gilbert Dodd of Ashland (O.) college; Virgil Grace of Yankton (S. D.) and Bob Hartman, Beloit's Midwestern conference champion.

Football Yarn Wins in Contest

Wisconsin Writer Takes
First Place for
'Tall Story'

Bloomington, Ind.—David Velle of Monroe, Wis., a free lance writer and former reporter for the Milwaukee (Wis.) Sentinel and the Chicago Tribune, won the national newspaper "tall story" contest sponsored by the Indiana university chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity.

Announcement of the result of the contest, which was to determine the best true newspaper story of the past year, was made last night.

Second place went to Ed F. Smith of the Jackson (Mich.) Citizen-Patriot. Basil L. Walters, editor of the Minneapolis (Minn.) Star-Journal, won third place.

The winning "tall story" was selected by Author Irvin S. Cobb; Arthur Bobb, editor of Editor and Publisher, and Lowell Thomas.

The story told of a football game between the University of Texas and Arkansas university in which Jack Crain of Texas made a last-minute touchdown and kicked the extra point to give his team a 14-to-13 victory.

Velle said a Dallas, Texas, newspaper man wrote a story that "God and Jack Crain today defeated the Arkansas Razorbacks by a score of 14 to 13."

He said the managing editor of the paper sent this memo to the sports writer:

"Please check on the rumor that Coach Fred Thomson of Arkansas has protested the game. He feels that God is ineligible in the Southwestern conference under the freshman rule."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press
Rudy York and Hal Newhouse, Tigers—Former hit two-run homer and latter pitched six-hit ball in downing Senators, 5-3.

Cliff Melton, Giants—Pitched six innings in relief and held Cardinals to two hits.

Clintonville to Open Bid for 3rd Pennant Sunday

Truckers to Begin Northern State League Play
At Manitowoc

CLINTONVILLE—While the weather at the present time is better suited for snowball fights and the like, Manager Sid Felts of the Clintonville FWD Trucker baseball team is preparing to launch the 1940 Northern State league at Manitowoc Sunday afternoon. Clintonville is the defending champion, having won the bunting the last two years, and Manager Felts is out after another pennant winner.

Starting from scratch this season, Felts took over the managerial duties from Len Goerlinger who resigned after having brought the Truckers through the last five seasons with five championships in two different leagues. Last Sunday Clintonville and New London played a practice game and while it was only a 7 inning contest, the Truckers displayed lots of punch in winning, 5 to 4.

Lots of new faces will be in the Clintonville lineup Sunday with only four of last year's squad returning. On the firing line the Truckers have a staff of three hurlers including Manager Felts, Carl Lehman, formerly of the Wausau Lumberjacks, and Johnny Ebert.

Lehman possibly will get the starting nod with Gene Volkman back from last year on the receiving end behind the plate. For first base, Felts has announced the signing of Hugo Kampke who recently tried out with the Green Bay Class D club. Replacing Ty Steff, who this year is performing with Green Bay in the Wisconsin State league, is Frosty Ferracane. Green Bay West basketball coach. At short a newcomer to the Truckers is Clarence Holm who showed plenty of stuff in last Sunday's exhibition game.

Rollie Kersten will again patrol third base and will also take over the captain's duties. In the outfield Manager Felts has a wealth of material including Al Anderson of last year's nine, Cy Dax, Jim Huff, man who was with the Truckers part of last season and who can double as a pitcher, and Joe Peteka who also performed with Clintonville for part of last year and can double up either on the mound or on first base.

Just what to expect from Manitowoc is not known as yet but should have a powerful team with a trio of Sheboygan stars being added, including George Heisk, pitcher, Buck Krause, third base and Tony Suscha, shortstop.

Capacity Crowd At Sports Party
MacKenzie Is Speaker at Conservation Club
Event

Outagamie Conservation club presented its annual booster party last night at Armory D to a capacity crowd.

H. W. MacKenzie, Madison, state director of conservation, was the principal speaker and commended the club on its interest in wild life and its accomplishments. He mentioned that proper promotion of wildlife took considerable time and that the work deserved more help from less active members of clubs.

The state director also touched on the work of his department and pointed out that there are some factions which always find fault asked confidence in the department and its program. He also commended the persons connected with the department and mentioned specifically, Warden Emil Kramer of Appleton.

The other feature of the program was a fly casting and bait casting exhibition by Lew Morrison, Chicago, a national champion. He was handicapped by lack of room to work but pleased highly when he took several persons to the front of the hall and taught them to whip a fly line in only a few minutes.

Today's Guest Star
C. M. Gibbs, Baltimore Sun: "Dispatches say Connie Mack never has given up on Bennie McCoy. . . . Nope, only $45,000 worth."

Davey Day is a 3-2 choice over Sammy Angert in Derbytown tonight. . . . Buck Newsom has gone. Connie Mack and Clark Griffith are better. He says the Yanks won't even finish second. . . . In spring practice at Marquette the other day the line included a Pole, an Irishman, a German, a Swede, a Jew, a Dane and a Greek.

Wrestlers At Play
Farmer Jones, the bearded wrestler, who keeps two pet razorback hogs in his hotel room, won an Easter egg hunt at Amarillo, Tex., recently, with a top score of 14. (P. S.: The hunt was on the level).

Explains Art of Collaring Derby
Winner With Roses

Louisville, Ky.—To amiable, chunky Andy Phillips, Negro handyman for stewards at Churchill Downs, the most important job after tomorrow's Kentucky Derby will be wrapping that 6-foot 8-inch garland of roses around the neck of the winning horse.

"Ya gotta lose 'em on easy-like," Andy explained. "Lots of hosses gets skittish and try to shy away in all that crowd. Ya gotta make sure ya don't stir 'em up too much."

Andy has been performing this little ritual since Twenty Grand won the derby in 1931.

Preparation of the garland requires considerable care. The roses—500 of them—are fashioned into a blanket so deftly that not a protruding end or rough surface touches the horse.

90 Grid Coaches to Attend U. W. Clinic

Madison—The third annual University of Wisconsin football clinic opened today with an expected attendance of 90 coaches from Wisconsin and nearby states.

Among speakers at the 1-day session will be Major L. N. (Biff) Jones, Nebraska coach, Athletic Director Harry Stuhldreher, Frank O. Holt, dean of the Wisconsin extension division, and a group of high school mentors including C. A. Carlsen, Dr. Forrest, Orv Dermody, Messmer High, Milwaukee, Ade Olson, Eau Claire, Nello Pacetti, Manitowoc, and Martin Jackson, Wauwatosa.

The university's annual "army-navy" spring football game will wind up the conference tomorrow afternoon.

Local Boy Making Good

Detroit—The baseball magazine's boxoffice dream—a boy attaining stardom with his home town team—is again coming true for the Detroit Tigers.

This time the hero is 18-year-old Harold Newhouse, a six-foot-two-inch left-handed pitcher, who is still a student at Wilbur Wright High school.

With less than a year's professional baseball experience as a back-ground, Harold scored his first big league victory yesterday when he allowed the Washington Senators but six hits in getting a 5 to 3 win. Last Saturday in his first game

They Don't Laugh At Brooklyn Now!

BY DILLON GRAHAM
ROOKLYN—(P)—The Brooks are no longer the Daffy Dodgers. They're Durocher's Devas-tating Dodgers now. The surprise team of baseball. The peppiest, most inspired club in the majors.

During the regime of Uncle Wilbert Robinson the Brooks were baseball's Daffiness Boys. Fans all ways were guaranteed a laugh watching them. You never could tell when one base runner would overrun another or when an outfielder would be hit on the conk by a fly ball.

But those days are gone. The Dodgers are playing a fast, scientific, thrilling brand of ball. They have a gogetter showman in Boss Larry MacPhail and a cocky, confident manager in Lippy Leo Durocher. The Flatbush Fusiliers won't need many breaks to win the National league flag.

Even in Brooklyn, perhaps the best baseball town in the land, is completely batty over the Dodgers. Some 30,000 turned out on a cold, rainy opening day. And thousands of them were among the 38,000 and the 51,000 who jammed the Polo Grounds for Brooklyn's games with New York.

Brooklyn got a big belt out of the Dodgers' three straight wins over the Giants.

MacPhail Moves In
The Dodgers' upsurge began when Larry MacPhail, the smartest showman and idea man in the game took charge before the 1938 season.

Larry is largely responsible. He bought the players and Durocher directed them. MacPhail began housecleaning right off the bat. There are just nine players still on hand from the mediocre squad he inherited. Pitchers Fred Fitzsimmons, Luke Hamlin, Van Lingle Mungo and Forrest Presnell. Catcher Babe Phelps. Infielders Durocher, Pete Coscarart, John Hudson and Harry Lavagetto.

Starting the Phillies with a wad of greenbacks in 1938 he bought first baseman Dolph Camilli for $45,000, purchased Whitlow Wyatt, Milwaukee hurler, drafted Pitchers Hugh Casey from Memphis and Bill

Crouch from Nashville and grabbed Pitcher Vito Tamulis from the Browns and Outfielder Ernest Koy from the Yankees via waivers. Then Larry swapped Buddy Hassett and Jimmy Outlaw to Boston for Outfielder Gene Moore and Pitcher Ira Hutchinson.

Last year MacPhail bought a pair of outfielders, Jim Rippel from the Giants and Fred Walker from Detroit, and traded tosser Bill Posedel to Boston for Catcher Al Todd.

And since last season Larry really has been throwing the money around. He handed Louisville $45,000 and several players for Shortstop Hal Reese, paid Free Agent Roy Cullenbine $25,000 to sign and then gave the Red Sox $25,000 for Outfielder Joe Vosmik. Then he went out and bought Pitchers Carl Doyle from Memphis, Max Macdon from the Cardinals and Jim Carleton from Milwaukee. Larry signed Wes Ferrell, free agent pitcher, traded Al Todd to the Cubs for Pitcher Neve Kimball and Catcher Gus Mancuso, bought Outfielder Charles Gilbert from Nashville and Catcher Herman Franks from the Cardinals.

has had better early season pitching than any other club and the chances are the hurlers will hold up. Luke Hamlin, who won 20 last year, looks for another good season. Hugh Casey, who won 15, is booked to win 20. Whit Wyatt, probably the best of the bunch when in shape, will be a winner if his knee, injured last season, doesn't trouble him. Carleton, Doyle, Fitzsimmons, Mungo, Pressnell, Macon and Tamulis round out a corps of capable aides from among whom Durocher and MacPhail hope to find another starting pitcher.

The Dodgers are riding high, wide and handsome now. And they're likely to surprise their critics and keep it up. In fact, the cry out

Lawrence Netters Will Tangle With St. Norbert Team

Golf Matches Scheduled
For Saturday are Postponed

LAWRENCE college tennis team will open its home schedule with matches against St. Norbert college on the new courts at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The golf teams of the two schools also were scheduled to play but the matches have been postponed because of the wet condition of the course. The golfers will clash next Wednesday or Thursday.

Viking netters are Don Frederickson, Ed Chambers, Al Staffeld, Jack Brand, Ed Bayley and Sheldon Spencer. Members of the golf team are Stan Zwergel, Al Held, Blair Rogers and Art Kemmer. Walter Senior is the tennis coach and Bernie Heston directs the golf squad.

Lawrence track, tennis, and golf teams will be hosts to Ripon Tuesday afternoon, May 7. The Vikes are expected to take the track and field meet quite handsily and continue the domination in these events which has seen them lose but four meets to the Redmen in history. During this series, which started in 1900, Lawrence has set up fourteen of the fifteen possible records.

The golf and tennis stand to be much more closely contested with a repetition of last year's tie in golf and the close Lawrence victory in tennis again quite possible. The Vikes took the track meet last year 73 to 57. Although not possessing a well balanced dual meet team, this season, A. C. Denney is bringing a few sophomores up fast with the result that upsets may be expected in a few events. This will be the only home dual meet of the season.

Church League to Meet This Evening

Church softball league officials will meet at 7:30 this evening at the Y.M.C.A. Plans for the coming season will be discussed.

Giants Explode 7-4 Victory Over St. Louis Cards

Bad Weather Washes Out All but Two Games; Tigers Nip Senators

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
It doesn't pay to become too enthusiastic about a baseball club winning one game. In fact, no one knows right now whether it's worth while getting excited about a team winning nine games—even in a row.

Yet a glance at the National league standings today will show anybody interested that the New York Giants are in third place and a thought about the manner in which they subjugated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 yesterday might convince some that they may stay there.

The Giants this year have one of those "extremist" teams. The veterans are too old and the rookies are too young. But the grey-beards are full of wisdom and the no-beards are filled with enthusiasm and the right mixture can be powerfully explosive.

Making a delayed start against their first western opposition of the season, the Giants got 14 hits yesterday. Mel Ott hit a homer with one on, Mickey Vernon hit a round-tripper inside the park. Harry Danning smacked two doubles and two singles and so on.

In addition they got one of the best jobs of relief pitching any team in the big leagues has received this season. Lefty Cliff Melton took charge with none out in the third and proceeded to hurl for six innings giving up only two hits.

Bad weather washed out all but two of the major league contests yesterday. In the other game the Detroit Tigers downed the Washington Senators 5-3 on the six-hit hurling of an 18-year-old rookie, Hal Newhouse. Rudy York helped with his first home run of the season with one on in the second and also smacked a triple that didn't figure in the scoring.

This put the Tigers hot on the heels of the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians, who are tied for the lead in the American league.

Only Thing That May Stop Bimelech Is Plenty of Rain

Bradley Horse Expected To Win 66th Derby Hands Down

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Colonel Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech, odds-on favorite for tomorrow's 66th running of the Kentucky derby, was the first entry for the race dropped in the box when the racing secretary's office opened today at Churchill Downs.

The second entry in the box was that of Mrs. Ethel V. Mares' Gallahadion, with Carroll Bierman the jockey to ride him in tomorrow's big race.

The next two in the entry box were Cirocco, from the stable of Charles T. Fisher, of the Fisher Body family of Detroit, and Royal Man, mud-running colt owned by Harold S. Clark of Miami Beach, Fla.

Next in line came the unexpected entry of M. J. Schmitt, Louisville lawyer, for his colt, True Star.

Sixth entry was that of Charles S. Howard's Midland, Oregon-bred colt.

The entry list jumped to seven when the name of Roman, Joseph E. Widener's Sir Gallahad III colt, was filed.

Arnold Hange's Dit, winner of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica last week, came next.

Bimelech was supposed to win hands down, and it would not be truthful to state that the air of Louisville is charged with excitement. The thousands of visitors who are churning about the hotel lobbies are pretty well charged, certainly, but not with excitement.

It is much as it was a year ago, when Johnstown was so obviously the class of the field. Everybody is preparing to go out and warble "My Old Kentucky Home" and generally get very sentimental, but nobody seems to think it will be much of a horse race.

The weather is very unpleasant—cold and rainy—and gives promise of getting worse before it improves. Tomorrow's crowd, as a sensible result, may not be a record one.

Extensive Additions
This is painful to the management, including the Downs boss, Colonel M. J. Schmitt, because they have made extensive additions to the clubhouse since last year.

The price that Bimelech will pay—providing, of course, that the Bradley thoroughbred wins on schedule—likely will be the legal minimum in this state, which is 10 cents on the dollar. That is, the man who buys a $200 ticket on the "big boss" is sure of getting back $20, providing he wins.

Colonel E. Bradley, who owns Bimelech, has been in such good health down at Lexington. Nevertheless, there is a report going the rounds that he is going to defy his physicians and come up for the race. The colonel has seen four of his horses win the derby, and they say he is determined to watch Bimelech make it five.

The only thing that might pull the contest out of the hole on Bimelech is plenty of rain. Should it come down tonight, steadily, and the track become really muddy tomorrow, a lot of patrons will shop around for a horse that might beat him. For some reason there always is doubt that a favorite can run in the mud, though Bimelech has won two of his races in fairly heavy going.

A scattered few expressed the opinion that Midland, the west coast horse, might spring a surprise and run right away from Bimelech down the stretch. Midland undoubtedly is the "dark horse," and there might be a good bit of money bet on him.

Some are going to take a chance on Dit, the gelding that won the Wood Memorial in New York last week, and a few will take a long shot on W. L. Brown's colt, True Star.

But, mostly, the crowd will stamp its feet to regain circulation, blow on its hands and pour the money into the windows on Bimelech.

Gallahadion, Roman and Royal Man, the other three considered certain starters in the big race, mostly will come in for place and show bets.

The owner of the winner will receive more than $60,000, which is nice money.

Chicago Keglers Hold A.B.C. Lead

Only Last-Minute Upset Can Displace Monarchs With 3,047

Detroit—(AP)—It probably won't happen, but there is ample precedent for a last-minute upset which would beat the Chicago Monarchs out of the American Bowling congress team title.

With less than a week to go, the Monarchs are firmly established on top of the five-man listings with a score of 3,047—lower than the winning figure of the past four years, but 44 pins better than any other team has been able to do in the current 62-day tourney.

Yet on more than one occasion leaders have been toppled at the eleventh hour. The Chicago Arnolds were all ready to pocket the prize money in 1921 at Buffalo when the Saunders team of Toronto nosed them out while rolling on the final shift of the tournament. A rally in the closing hours boosted the Wolfe Tires, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., into the title four years ago over the Detroit Trolls.

When the A.B.C. was held here in 1932 the Jefferson Clothiers of Dayton, Ohio, pulled a surprise victory just before the finish to oust the Milwaukee Verifiers from the lead.

Yesterday's fiasco did nothing to disturb the leaders. The Heck Ross Clothiers of Des Moines, Iowa, posted the high team score—2,826—and

BILL KLEM: 'I've Never Called One Wrong'

BOSTON—(AP)—It didn't take baseball players long this season to find that Umpire Bill Klem was still drawing that line.

The National league season wasn't an hour old before Klem drew the line—the toe stripe in the dirt over which no player is foolhardy enough to venture.

That line is Klem's last word. Whenever players become too vociferous and argumentative over a decision and crowd Bill too closely, the veteran arbiter just traces a line in the sand and walks off. That generally ends the fuss, for if they step over the line they're out of the ball game and maybe fined, too.

Bill is 65, the oldest umpire in the game and starting his 39th season as a play-caller. He served warning to Boston and Brooklyn—and indirectly to the rest of the league—in the Bees' opening game that he was still boss and still infallible.

Lippy Leo Durocher, the Brooklyn manager and a guy quick to challenge the umps, and Babe Phelps, the Dodgers' catcher, gave Bill the works over a decision assignment. He cannot recall the name of the alleged tough player, but remembers that along about the fourth inning he called a Minneapolis player safe at second. Scarcely had Klem gestured "safe" and started back to plate than the tough centerfielder came running in yelling: "What, what?"

As Bill passed the pitcher's mound, he suddenly stopped and, without turning around, drew a line through the dust with his spiked shoe.

"It was the most automatic thing I've ever done," he explained. "Even if it was the first time. I don't know why I did it, just an instinctive move, I guess. Anyway, I got to the plate, looked around and there was the outfielder, his toes right on the line and Bill Terry of the Giants was plainly put out over one of Umpire Bill Klem's decisions in 1937, when the picture at the left was taken. And on opening day 1940 Leo Durocher and Babe Phelps of the Dodgers were quick to challenge Klem's stand. But, as usual, Bill had the last word. He's never lost an argument.

Finally Bill drew a Milwaukee assignment. He cannot recall the name of the alleged tough player, but remembers that along about the fourth inning he called a Minneapolis player safe at second. Scarcely had Klem gestured "safe" and started back to plate than the tough centerfielder came running in yelling: "What, what?"

As Bill passed the pitcher's mound, he suddenly stopped and, without turning around, drew a line through the dust with his spiked shoe.

"It was the most automatic thing I've ever done," he explained. "Even if it was the first time. I don't know why I did it, just an instinctive move, I guess. Anyway, I got to the plate, looked around and there was the outfielder, his toes right on the line and still yelling. I didn't even look at him, just went on with the game. And damned if he didn't turn around and go back to his position." Klem has been drawing the line ever since.

It has long been Bill's boast that he never called one wrong. "But," sports writers often insist, "isn't it possible that you might have called one wrong?"

"No," Bill always replies, "I have never missed one."

"But," the writers persist, "Don't you think that in some one of the many games you have worked you might have erred in one decision?"

"Never Missed One Here," Bill always replies, "I have never missed one."

Then Bill taps his chest over his heart and says: "I've never missed one here, son. If I did I would know it. No one can tell me he ever saw me call a play wrong on the ball field. I don't call them as I see them—I call them as they are.

"If I knew a decision to be wrong, I would not call it—I not for all the men or all the money in the world. Therefore, I have never called one wrong."

Bill has worked more than 6,000 games and has officiated in 17 World Series, a record without parallel. Despite his 65 years, Bill gets around as fast as most of the other arbiters and is always on top of the play.

There's no telling how much longer Klem will umpire. But one thing is certain: He'll go down in baseball history as one of the greatest of umpires, on a par with Tim Lincecum, Silk O'Loughlin and Hank O'Day.

About 400 Attend Safety Gathering

Ernest Jennerjohn Honored as 'Grand Champion Safety Worker'

Kimberly—About 400 persons attended the spring safety rally at the high school auditorium Thursday evening. J. T. Doerflinger, Kimberly mill manager, addressed the group, cautioning the villagers about the coming season, when children will be out of schools, and at the play ground, and asked motorists especially to drive carefully. Mr. Doerflinger said that he hoped another safety rally would again be held in fall.

S. F. Shattuck, vice president of Kimberly-Clark corporation, talked on relations of the corporation with the community. Ernest Jennerjohn, Appleton, who has been with the corporation for about forty-seven years, was honored at the meeting. Through a national safety contest, he was given the title of "grand champion safety worker." He has worked 145,000 man hours without a lost-time accident. He is a roll grinder at the Kimberly mill.

Before the main meeting, sectional gatherings were held in the various class rooms which dealt on phases of safety. Charles Eagle Plume, an Indian and a graduate of the University of Colorado, demonstrated some of the Indian dances and explained their meanings. During his program he was dressed in Indian costume.

Company C Reunion To Be Held May 19 At Grand View Hotel

Waupaca—A reunion of Company C, Fourth Wisconsin infantry, is being planned for Sunday, May 19 at Grand View hotel, Rainbow lake, and fully 150 of the original 178 volunteers are expected to attend the gathering. Dr. C. W. Andrews, first captain of the company, will be in charge of the arrangements. It is also expected that a Lone Man's club that day.

The company was organized May 1917, with volunteers from the western part of Waupaca county, the northern part of Portage county. One group trained under John McCabe, Waupaca, at Almond, in Portage county; another trained at Iowa, Waupaca county, under Loren Gmeiner of Waupaca, and the third group trained at Waupaca under Bruce R. McCoy, son of Colonel Robert McCoy.

On Aug. 17 the entire company left Waupaca for Camp Dodge where they trained until Sept. 25, 1917. From there they went to Waco, Texas, and in October the 32nd Division was formed and Company C was broken up and transferred into many different outfits. With few exceptions all of the men were in France by January, 1918, remaining there and later with the army of occupation until May 1, 1919, when they were returned to the United States and discharged during the same month.

The reunion is being held on the Sunday nearest the date of the enlistment and the date of discharge.

A device which mixed 40 pounds of salt with each cubic foot of sand was built and attached to motor truck pump plows. The state highway department used 18 of the machines. The salt helped prevent the roads from "icing up."

Meets New London in Postponed Meet Tuesday Afternoon

COACH MARVIN BABLER is a happy man today. His Appleton High school track team has been decidedly weak in the broad jump but yesterday afternoon during indoor drills a probable point-getter was uncovered in Eugene Pegel. Until yesterday nobody on the squad could do much over 16 feet. Pegel ripped off 19 feet and with additional practice is expected to better that distance.

Inclement weather this week forced the team indoors but has not interfered seriously with practices. Postponed from Wednesday, the team is pointing for a dual meet with New London at 4:15 Tuesday afternoon on the Appleton High school track. It will be the initial contest at the school field. The jumping events will be omitted because pits won't be ready.

Featuring the New London-Appleton meet will be a clash between two of the best milers in the state, Schmidt of New London and Vogt of Appleton. Schmidt nosed out Vogt in the last few steps of a race in an indoor meet at Wisconsin Rapids earlier this season. Vogt led until the final yard.

The Terrors will tangle with East Green Bay in a dual meet at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 11, at Whiting field.

Day and Angott Battle Tonight

Winner Will Succeed Ambers as NBA Lightweight Champion

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Sammy Angott and Davey Day, who came up from the ranks of the amateurs, tangle tonight for the world's lightweight boxing championship as the National Boxing association sees it.

In the eyes of the N. B. A. and its 41 affiliated state associations, the winner will succeed Lou Ambers, whose lightweight title the N. B. A. declared forfeited because he declined to defend it within the prescribed six-month period.

Matchmaker Vern Franklin, announcing advance sales had been boosted to $10,000 by out-of-town fans here for tomorrow's Kentucky derby, predicted a record crowd of 12,000 would pay approximately $34,000—at a $5.75 top—to see the 15-round scuffle.

Day, a former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, and Angott, who was an amateur battler in Washington, Pa., before he adopted Louisville as his home, have met twice before. Angott won a split decision in 10 rounds and Day triumphed by a similar verdict in 12.

Sam Pian, Day's manager, figures the longer distance will favor his fighter. Pian even went so far as to predict a knockout for Day, whose right carries a well known kind of dynamite.

Angott and his manager, Charley Jones, scarcely are hopeful of a knockout, but they think Sammy's right-fisted attack will give Day a going over he won't forget.

They're scheduled to enter the ring at 10 p. m. (C. S. T.).

A third fight principal is the old Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey, assigned to serve as both referee and sole judge of the bout. The rival managers agreed to dispense with the customary two-judge system.

Milwaukee—Marquette university may have another one of those "melting pot" football teams next fall. At one time in spring practice the other day, the Golden Avalanche included a Pole, an Irishman, a German, a Swede, a Jew, a Dane and a Greek.

Giants Explode 7-4 Victory Over St. Louis Cards

Bad Weather Washes Out All but Two Games; Tigers Nip Senators

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
It doesn't pay to become too enthusiastic about a baseball club winning one game. In fact, no one knows right now whether it's worth while getting excited about a team winning nine games—even in a row.

Yet a glance at the National league standings today will show anybody interested that the New York Giants are in third place and a thought about the manner in which they subjugated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 yesterday might convince some that they may stay there.

2 Gas Companies Refused Right to Merge Properties

Commission's Order Leaves Door Open for Action Later

Madison, Wis.—The public service commission today held the way open for a merger of Central Wisconsin Gas company at Waupaca and the Southwestern Wisconsin Gas company at Sparta, and for a recapitalization of the utilities, on the condition that the financial plan proposed comply with the laws regulating such combinations and securities issues.

Yesterday the commission denied consent to the proposed merger of the companies, and refused authority to issue $100,000 of five per cent first mortgage bonds.

Both companies operate butane gas utilities. The former company, established 10 years ago, had 439 customers who used about 12,000,000 cubic feet of gas last year. The latter sold 27,000,000 cubic feet last year to 922 customers.

Both had accumulated operating deficits over a period of several years, attributed by the commission to losses in merchandising efforts for appliances through which it was hoped the consumption of gas would be increased.

The commission, possibly as a result of such testimony at the recent hearings, in its order denying the merger also issued instructions that the utilities must annually charge depreciation expenses of 2½ per cent of the depreciable plant until they are otherwise ordered by the state utility board.

The case was decided by Chairman R. W. Peterson and Robert Nixon, who wrote the majority opinion. A dissent by Wildon Whitney argued that:

"After considering the well-defined territory covered by these two companies; after studying the past business record and present balance sheets of the companies; and after a careful resume of general business methods and present status of both companies, I favor the merger and the issuance of securities requested."

Greatest GOP Gains Since 1936 Found in Mid-West and Great Lakes Region in Poll

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—The largest defection in Democratic Party sentiment since 1936, with corresponding Republican gains, has taken place in states of the Mid-West and Great Lakes region, judging by the results of national soundings of public sentiment by the American Institute.

While the Democratic Party has a slight edge over the GOP throughout the nation in these studies, the gain in Republican sentiment ranges as high as 20 to 25 percentage points in some states. The greatest shift has come in North Dakota, where Democratic strength is 25 points below 1936, and in Wisconsin, where the defection has been 23 points.

In 17 states, the study shows, there has been a gain of 10 points or more in Republican strength, and a corresponding loss for the Democrats. Another 12 states show Democratic losses of 5 to 10 points, while in 9 states the shift has been 5 or less.

In the remaining 10 states—all of them in the South—the Democrats have made gains, ranging from one to four points.

The study is based on the answers of a cross-section of voters in all states to the question: "Which party would you like to see win the presidential election this year?"

When the results are compared state by state with the party vote in 1936, the following shifts are seen:

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

HAARON VII

Not quite three weeks ago, King Haakon VII of Norway sent out a message to his people which you may have read in newspaper reports. Here, in shortened form, is what he said:

King Haakon VII as a young man.

"I ask all Norwegian men and women to do everything they can to save our dear fatherland. Norway has been attacked by a mighty foe who bombs peaceful people. Women and children have suffered. The bombs, explosive bombs and machine guns have been turned against us in the most reckless way. I ask you to stand with the government and fight for Norway's freedom."

The king's message was simple and strong. He and the elected officers of Norway had tried hard to keep their land at peace. Then came the terrible blow, forcing the king out of his home city and putting him in danger of bombs from enemy airplanes.

His personal danger, however, was not his chief thought. His mind was mainly on the sorrows of his people.

Last August, King Haakon had his sixty-seventh birthday. He has been the king of Norway since 1905, when he was invited to take the throne by the Norwegians. Before that year, Norway had been united with Sweden.

After the union with Sweden was broken, the Norwegians chose a Danish prince to be their king. The prince took the name of Haakon VII. He is a younger brother of Denmark's king, Christian X. The kings of Norway, Sweden and Denmark have not shown themselves greedy for power. None of them has ever tried to be a "dictator." The people in all three countries have had the right to vote and the right to speak their minds. They have been free to go to any church, if they wished to do so.

An excellent university has been kept up at Oslo. It is 129 years old.

The Norwegians are careful to give school training to boys and girls. Norway ranks among the countries which have the best records in regard to the ability of people to read and write.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

TODAY'S MENU

It's by using a casserole wisely that some cooks seem to get just the right amount of seasoning and rich, juicy flavor in a "Meal in a Dish." Nothing seems to induce that tantalizing blend of aroma and flavors like long slow cooking in a casserole.

A meal concocted from the following casserole dish will guarantee satisfaction to the member of the family. To complete the menu add an orange and grapefruit salad, corn meal muffins and that favorite springtime dessert, rhubarb pie.

The Menu
Mexican Spaghetti
Orange and Grapefruit Salad
Corn Meal Muffins
Rhubarb Pie

Coffee
1 pound spaghetti
1 pound ground ham
1 tablespoon butter
1 can peas
1 can tomato soup

Cook spaghetti in boiling water until tender. Drain. Brown ham in butter. Mix spaghetti, ham, peas, tomato soup, salt and pepper together well. Place in buttered baking dish and cover with grated cheese and strips of bacon. Bake 1 hour in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. Serves 8 to 10.

Orange and Grapefruit Salad
4 oranges
2 grapefruit
1 cup pecan nut meats broken in pieces
4 tablespoons powdered sugar

Peel oranges and grapefruit, carefully remove pulp by sections. Sprinkle grapefruit with powdered sugar.

Corn Meal Muffins

1 cup yellow corn meal
1 cup sugar
1 egg
3 tablespoons 1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, melted
Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add beaten egg, milk and melted butter and mix together well. Fill greased muffin tins half full and bake 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven 400 degrees F.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie
1 unbaked pie shell
1 cup rhubarb
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon Grated rind of 1 large lemon
1 tablespoon butter

Combine rhubarb with sugar, flour, butter, egg yolks, slightly beaten, lemon juice and rind. Fill pastry lined pie pan. Bake in a hot oven 425 degrees F. for 30 minutes then reduce heat to moderate 325 degrees F. Make a meringue of whites of eggs. Spread on pie and return to oven to brown.

My Neighbor Says—

The best way to assure an adequate supply of cut flowers is to plant a few rows in the vegetable garden.

Fresh strawberries will keep better if they are placed in a covered fruit jar and set in the refrigerator.

If you wish to preserve the color of green vegetables cook them uncovered.

The flavor of apple pie is greatly improved by sprinkling a little lemon juice over the layers of sliced apples as they are placed in the pan.

Must Beware Of Duplicate Card Values

BY ELY CULBERTSON

There is one pitfall that can trap the most expert bidding team. I refer to "duplication of values." Consider a hand such as today's. North and South arrived at a grand slam contract by bidding of which the most captious or conservative critic scarcely could fail to approve; yet, success depended on a finesse, a factor which theoretically never should be present in a grand slam contract.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Cub Scout Meeting Is Held at Clintonville

Clintonville — The third in a series of instructive meetings for cub scouts, their leaders and parents was held Wednesday evening at the Methodist church. A group from Shawano was present to explain cubbing projects and activities. The local pack consists of 25 cubs, with Norman Hanson as cub commissioner and acting cubmaster. He is assisted by Neil Etheridge, Edward Du Frane, Richard Everson and Leo Leinweber as assistant cub masters.

Each den of cubs consisting of 8 or 10 boys meets in their neighborhood once a week and meetings of the entire pack are held once a month. Besides the regular outdoor activities, the cubs study one subject each month. "Up in the Air" is this month's subject in which the boys learn about kites, gliders and airplanes. Last month the subject was "Indian-craft." Boys of the ages of 9, 10 and 11 are eligible for membership in the cub pack, which in this city is sponsored by the Methodist church. England, France Need Better Leadership More Than Credits

Washington—Agitation which has begun for breaking down the Johnson act and opening up a line of credit to the allies seems to me to miss the point, insofar as that is proposed to aid materially in defeat of Germany.

Clapper

This agitation probably could be traced to allied sources and to friendly Americans whose zeal runs ahead of the facts—but not this time to the bankers, because if there are any war loans the bankers won't get the commissions. The business will be done the next time by the government.

Such agitation for allied credits would make sense—and may finally get its real impetus—only as a way of subsidizing allied purchases of farm products which have been drastically cut or diverted to empire sources. The allies buy here only what they can't obtain within their own systems.

Credits are not necessary to the allies yet, and won't be perhaps for two years. It is decidedly premature to open the question now.

British and French assets, available for war purchases here, are just about equal to their share of the unpaid debts from the last war. Their gold reserves and bank balances in the United States amount to nearly $10,000,000,000. Britain mines about $800,000,000 in gold each year, and that also is available.

Of course one might ask what good the gold is to us, since we have not enough teeth to use it up in fillings. But perhaps, just as an idle afternoon thought, we could use it later as an inducement toward setting up a better world. Meantime we might as well take the gold as take paper. The point is that the British and French can pay for what they are buying in supplies.

Ten billion dollars will buy a lot of supplies. In the first quarter of this year Europe took $66,816,000 in airplanes. Our army designs of tanks, guns and other weapons have been released to the allies, and priority in production is given to allied war purchases over our own army-navy needs. But orders are relatively light. Therefore, unless British and French purchasing is stepped up, our capacity vastly expanded, their resources will last probably until early 1943 on a cash-and-carry basis. If there are bridges to be crossed later, we can cross them then.

U. S. Aid To Allies Is Just Short Of Actual War

What the allies most need now is something that lies only within themselves—better leadership, better military organization, and no doubt better internal gearing of their machine. It is not for us to criticize them, and I don't mean to. But it does need to be pointed out that we are giving aid to the allies up to our capacity, practically, short of going into the war.

Our industrial plant has been placed at their disposal and it is being expanded every day. We are not seriously pressing any neutral rights to hamper the British and French, but on the contrary are giving them the right of way. Our moral support, for what it may be worth, if anything, is practically 100 per cent.

Difficulties of the allies come not from any lack of aid from here but from other conditions—their wide exposure position which is now threatened both in the north and in the Mediterranean; sluggish and inadequately prepared and executed answers to Hitler's initiative as in Norway; the fumbling of tired old men; and perhaps their hesitation to move with the same ruthless strokes that their enemies employ.

When they really need credits here, they will find many friends to plead the case, and it might be a different story then.

LEAP BEFORE YOU LOOK

By Peggy O'More

was bringing the aired blankets into the house. Tom felt that all she did was run around in circles.

Only Great-aunt Hannah remained calm and unruffled. Enthroned on a straight-backed chair, she directed activities.

Tom had no time to think of Allen Bartell, and because of this the sight of him caused her heart to leap into her throat and remain there.

"It's A Promise" "Does this belong to anyone here?" he inquired pleasantly, from the door, and brought into view a small figure which dripped water from head to heels. "I finished it out of the bay with a gaff-hook."

May hurried her young son upstairs and Bartell turned his charm on the Tolands.

"Well, this is a pleasure," he greeted.

"And it's all yours," whispered Mrs. Dougeny behind him. Alone, she asked if he would take her into town with him when he left.

Tom saw the golden plums dancing in Bartell's eyes. "Abe," she explained with dignity, "took his car when he drove into town. Pierre is driving mine to Sacramento."

The lights continued to dance. The family smiled with a pleasure. The young man wasn't as impossible as they had thought.

Before he left with Mrs. Dougeny, Great-aunt Hannah had promised to knit him a skull cap to wear in his boat, and the male Tolands had promised to try the boat immediately after breakfast.

"You're having dinner with me tomorrow evening," Allen whispered to Tom. "The cat's away."

Tom almost refused in anger. Ordering her about as though he knew she would accept. And then she remembered her vow. She would accept. She would wear her most fetching gown. She would turn on a combination De Mont-Toland charm and see if it couldn't outshine the Bartell brand.

"It's a promise," she agreed. Tom loved the family. Before the evening was over, she decided she would prefer to live there one at a time. They overpowered her by numbers. They talked her down. They weighted her with ponderous advice.

She needed Pierre to fend off their dominating love of her. She needed him for something else too.

Standing at a rear window she watched dusk gather and the first star appear in the afterglow. Last night, at this hour—how she hated Bartell! Pierre, who hoped to marry her, had never dared kiss her.

She must be more considerate of Pierre in the future. He'd worked so steadily. He deserved a change. She'd been selfish. Now that the accounts were so well established, she could let him do most of the traveling. Bartell couldn't accuse her of letting an employee do the actual work.

Later, if she married Pierre, they would travel together. But tomorrow night she was having dinner with Allen. Perhaps it was better that Pierre was out of town.

The evening dragged. At long last the guests were in their respective beds. Tom tucked under the duvet where she had spent her first night at the farm. Wearily she sank onto it and looked up at the portrait of Great-uncle Timothy. Silently, she blessed him for that time limitation of family visitors. Had the family been free to mill around the farm indefinitely, there would have been no black army to fight the reds.

The clock tolled eleven. Tom snapped off the light. "Only twelve hours more," she sighed, "and maybe they'll sleep late."

She had forgotten a Toland never slept late.

"This Is My Home" Promptly at six-thirteen Great-aunt Hannah descended the steps, fully clothed, her gray hair in a bounding pompadour.

"I'll prepare breakfast," she announced.

Tom flew into her clothes. "Tom!" Her voice rang through the halls, bringing the delinquent members to the banisters. "Tom, there has been no oatmeal prepared. Oatmeal must always be cooked the previous day; steamed properly."

Fourteen pairs of eyes stared at Tom, accusingly, some with hope behind the accusation.

"There is no oatmeal. There is no car to be sent for oatmeal," returned Tom evenly.

Six months earlier, Tom would have taken the subsequent lecture silently. Now she only allowed it to get well under way.

"Listen," she snapped, "this is my home. I have no oatmeal. I do have twenty white lockers on a twenty-four hour shift. This morning you're going to eat fried eggs and like them."

Great-aunt Hannah ate fried eggs. Four of them. The rest of the family followed suit. They ate toast, great stacks of it. They drank coffee gallons of it. Jars of jam and jelly melted under their dipping spoons.

And Tom, bending over the stove, over the toaster, and digging in the fruit closet for more preserves, vowed hereafter she would keep oatmeal on the shelf for such emergencies.

And again she gave thanks that eleven-thirty would see the family enroute home.

That spirit of gratitude grew with the morning. She forgot her hatred of Bartell when he appeared, and took the men away with him. She only regretted he didn't take Harold. Harold was irritable. His cheeks were flushed, his eyelids too heavy.

At ten o'clock Bartell returned with his guests. Harold wanted to play with him. Bartell swung him to his shoulder, then put him down hastily, felt of his hands and his brow.

"This youngster must have taken cold yesterday," he remarked.

Tom didn't see Allen when he left. Great-aunt Hannah was getting into the new "stays" and needed help. Carington told her Mr. Bartell had said he was going to his office and to remember she was having dinner with him that evening.

The family was debating on whether to call three cabs to carry them to Alameda where they would spend the rest of the day, or walk to the bus. When May Toland-Carington appeared, crying hysterically.

"Don't call a doctor. Harold says the room is full of pink frogs. He thinks Carington is a fish."

Tom had an answer for that, but she didn't give it. She raced up to look at Harold to place a cool hand on his brow. May was right. Harold was very ill.

She would call a doctor, but whom? Bartell would know, but he'd be enroute to the office. Oh, why wasn't Dotzy handy?

Abe was somewhere about the place. He hadn't come near the house, but she had heard his old car wheeze in.

"Abe!" She sped towards the pen where her voice caroled before her. "Harold is terribly ill!"

"He ought to be," grunted Abe. "But I have to call a doctor and I don't know any."
